GERMANY IS CENTERING FIGHT ON RUSSIA

Von Hindenburg Says His Men Will Win by Better Nerves, Czar's Center Beaten Back, Belgian Campaign Quiet

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Comparative calm in the west and reawakened activity in the east are taken by London to indicate that the German military chiefs have decided to concentrate their energies at the present stage of war towdrd dealing, if possible, a crushing blow to Russia.

Such fragmentary reports as were received today from the eastern zone of fighting showed that the German army was still pressing the Russians back through Russian Poland, over the same battlefields across which the Russians a few weks ago were advancing victoriously. No clear explanation has been made of the reversal in form of the opposing armies, although it has been reported on several occasions that the Germans were sending thousands of their finest troops from France and Belgium to the east.

IN SOUTH AND SOUTH.

The Russian war chiefs state that the advance in east Prussia and Galicia continues in spite of their admitted retreat in the center. German strategists believe that continued reverses in Russian Poland would force the Russians to draw back their northern and others armies.

The German admits of no doubt as to the outcome of the war with Russia. General Von Hindenburg, Germany's popular hero of the fighting in the east, is quoted as saying that Germany and Austria will win, although outnumbered, because they have strongers of arms, and because their soldiers do their own thinking, while Russian discipline is "a mere blind and dull obedience."

TWO GREAT BATLES.

Army headquarters in Petrograd announces that two great battles have developed along the eastern front, one in line between Czentschowa and Cracow, apparently extending along the railroad between these two points, and the second in the Warsa-Vistula region, but Russian observers do not appear to attach much significance to the outcome in this latter region.

A general survey of the reports received here from all quarters conveys the impression that the German advance in the Vistula has met at least with a temporary check, while the Russian invasion of East Prussia has suffered a like fate near Angerburg, where the German defenses, consisting chiefly of vertical lines of wire entanglements, are reported to be very strong.

Berlin declares that concentrated attack is being made on the Russian center, the German armies coming from the west and the northwest, while Austria is sending a force north from the Cracow region.

Petrograd, however, states that the center of the Russian line is still on the way, and that Cracow is believed to be invested on three sides, leaving only one line of communication open.

TERRIBLE COLD PREVAILS.

Also the possibility of the withdrawal of German troops for use against the British in the invasion for the time being in the fighting in the west. Cold and wet weather has numbed and exhausted the soldiers so that great physical effort is almost out of the question. The weather in Belgium is compared with a pack, which December day on the New England coast. The storm continues, and the waters of the North sea flow through the locks at Nieuport, which lie idle, and flood the low land in and hold back the German advance.

Notwithstanding the extent of the flooded area, the invasion seems to be on the adjacent. Large numbers of engineers are being sent to the front, and German ingenuity is to be put to the test to provide a scientific method of crossing the inundated country.

The French war office announced today that in the region of the Argonne forest, where severe engagements have been in progress for the last few days, the vigorous attacks had been made by German infantry. These assaults, it said, were repulsed.

The situation of this battle, foreign military critics explain, lies in the fact that if the Germans should succeed in pushing back the allies they would

In the Wake Of the War With Corey

It's jail for reporters seeking war news, says Mr. Corey, writing from Calais. They are hunted from town to town in northern France, and must get their news from wounded privates—officers are under instructions to arrest them on sight.

BY HERBERT COREY.
(Staff Correspondent of The Journal.)

CALAIS, France, Nov. 10.—There are tables in the cafes of Calais, and in front of some of them. A reporter sat at one such table, writing his daily "dispatch from the front." Some tall man in khaki came in sight.

"Blow, brothers, blow," said the reporter, hurrying into the back room. "There comes the bogy man."

None of the men in khaki knew any of the others sitting at that table. So the others sat there and watched the men in khaki. It was mildly exciting. If the soldiers learned the identity of those at the table they might put us all under arrest. On the other hand, they might crook a finger and take us into madame's back room and there unload the latest war news. Often this news is quite accurate. At any rate, it is all the reporters can get. When the enemy had gone the reporter came out of the back room.

"They pretty nearly got me yesterday," said he. "It looks as though I'd have to move to another town."

The narrative may prove interesting, as showing how news of this greatest of wars is procured by the reporters. It may be prefaced by the probably superfluous information that no reporter is allowed anywhere near the front. When a staff officer identifies a reporter that unfortunate purveyor of information is promptly nabbed. Some line officers—but few—will talk to him. Thomas Atkins, being of a sporting disposition, sympathizes with the reporter. He will tell all he knows or can think of whenever he gets a chance. He thinks the reporter has the chance of a hare against a pack of hounds, and his liking for long shots leads him to lay a bet on the hare.

"I didn't know he was an officer," said the reporter. "He wore a civvy overcoat. His legs were under the table, and I didn't see the khaki."

HOW A REPORTER ESCAPED ARREST.

So the reporter on the preceding day had innocently disclosed his identity as offering a reason for the questions he had been asking. That's the reportorial handicap. If he doesn't tell the other fellow he is a reporter he is apt to be pulled in as a spy. Spies are horribly unpopular heresbouts, if he does say he is a reporter, he may get arrested.

"What paper are you on?" this officer asked.

The London Mail," said the reporter. "You are under—" the officer began.

But he wasn't. The reporter had heard that ominous formula before. He upset the table on the half-khakied man and ran away. But he fully realizes that the officer will never die happy until he has wiped that insult out in arrest. So the reporter thinks he will move on.

"I'm getting the facial expression of a door mat thief," said the reporter. "I run every time I see an officer."

Two days before he had managed to get to Dunkirk. There he was talking with a pair of privates when he saw their faces change. Some one was coming up behind him. He did not turn and give the show away. He said goodby hurriedly and walked between a pair of freight cars. Then he did not turn the engineer to begin shunting the cars about before the officer had convinced himself by questioning the Tommies that the runaway was really a reporter. By that time he was safe.

There are perhaps forty or fifty English reporters scattered through these French coast towns. The English staff has a list of thirty of them. As last as they are identified they are placed under arrest.

"They got me at Arras," said the reporter, "I didn't have a chance there. Half a dozen of the staff knew me. One or two belongs to my club in London. I hadn't been in town an hour before they picked me up."

Orders from the English war office are that, so far as possible, no news regarding this invasion is to be printed except the official communiques. Doubtless General Kitchener has his reasons for this policy of silence. Civilians have no rights, except that of paying bills and being fed to guns. War correspondents are especially loathesome form of civilian.

"I was under arrest," said the reporter, "and in a cell for a time. Rotten cell. Damp straw. Some one else had been there before me. Didn't have much to eat for a day."

GETTING OFFICIAL PHOTOGRAPHS.

He was sent back to London, but he was not compelled to sign a promise not to write more news of the war. So that as soon as he had eaten and slept and bathed enough to make up arrearages he returned to the qualified front. Every day he meets his fellow reporters at the cafes in the coast towns. They compare what they have learned from private and wounded men during the day. Then they write stories from "a town in France." They do not want to cheat. But they must, or else accept the war office dictum that the world shall not know what is going on.

"My photographer has had his troubles, too," said the reporter. "But he hasn't been arrested. He has merely been kept on the run."

Several, at least, of the London papers start their photographers out from base camps with cheap cameras and $50 in money. They are arrested the soldiers smash their cameras. The photographers must get themselves out the best way they can. The paper will not aid. If they get photographs they are given another $50 and sent out again. If they do not they are sent home. It is wearing on photographers, and it does not produce valuable results.

There is a Scotch reporter for a London paper who has reported half a dozen wars. He said the other day that he was going to give up and go home.

COLDEST NOVEMBER DAY DRIVES PUPILS FROM CITY SCHOOLS

Mercury Drops to Fourteen and a Half Degrees Thursday Night as Northwest Gale Hits Atlanta Full Force

LITTLE SNOW HERE, BUT PLENTY FALLS IN SOUTH

Weather Man Says It Will Remain Cold Friday Night, but Promises Balmy Weather for Football Game Saturday

Fourteen and one-half degrees!

That was the minimum temperature in Atlanta Thursday night, a mark that broke all cold weather records for the month of November and was the coldest weather Atlanta has had any time in two years.

Conditions got but little warmer during the day Friday. It was colder at noon than it was at 5 o'clock Thursday night. The low mark of 14 1-2 degrees was registered at 6 o'clock Friday morning. By 10 o'clock the mercury had crawled up to 22 degrees, but its progress was slower after that. At noon, it was only 23 and at 1 o'clock was 25. Not once did it reach 30 degrees during the day.

Not since the founding of the weather bureau here thirty-six years ago has there been reported such a temperature in Turkey month. In November, 1887, the mercury fell to 16 degrees, but this November 20, 1914, went that mark nearly two degrees lower.

Last winter Atlanta had nothing to compare to it. The lowest recorded was 22 degrees in January. The records have to go back to January 16, 1912, when the mercury went to 10 degrees, to find anything lower.

Seven grades of the Edgewood city grammar school had to be dismissed Friday morning on account of insufficient heat.

One grade of the Grant park school had to be dismissed for the same reason.

One grade of Williams Street school had to be dismissed for the same reason, and the two sections of the second grade of Williams Street had to be combined because of insufficient heat in one of them.

In seven rooms on the north side of the Edgewood school building the temperature ranged from 42 to 51 degrees, when it should have been around 70 to keep the children comfortable.

On the south side of the building there was plenty of heat, and these grades were not dismissed.

"These dismissals are simply a repetition of what has happened on every extremely cold day for several years.

The cold wave was a strictly southern affair throughout the whole United States Friday it was comfortably warm except in the Sunny South. Asheville, N. C., and Nashville, Tenn., had the records with 10 degrees, while in the usually bitter cold states the mercury went dancing up. Up at Rapid City, S. D., good citizens were sweltering in a 54 degree heat, while south of Mason and Dixon's line the world shivered.

The first snow of the season fell in many cities by snow. Atlanta had its first snow of the season, but it was only a dribble. Enough snow was falling at Asheville, reports from North Carolina indicated a two-inch fall over half the state. A record snow was falling at Virginia, and Tennessee was getting her share.

In Atlanta the change was awful sudden. There was a prediction for slightly colder weather, but nobody expected a howling northwester to shriek down on the city, bringing flurries of snow in its wake. Late Thursday afternoon the change set in with a sullen rain. By 6 o'clock white snowflakes mingled with the raindrops, but even these had ceased by 10 o'clock and the city huddled down in the teeth of a gale so stiff that it fairly lifted pedestrians off their feet.

The high wind was still blowing Friday morning. It shouted unmercifully at doors and windows, and on the streets almost plucked the breath from the body. C. F. von Herrmann, at the weather bureau, predicted that the wind would die down during the day.

It will still be cold Friday night, a possible 24 degrees at the lowest. Saturday should be much warmer, is the prediction, and by Sunday the cold wave will have passed.

ENGLAND MAKES PLAN FOR ARMY OF 1,000,000

House of Commons Passes Vote in Favor of Additional Force

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The house of commons today formally passed the vote for the supplementary army estimate, which provides for an additional army of 1,000,000 men.

This is the additional million men mentioned by Premier Asquith in the house of commons last Monday. It is quite apart from the territorials, and is additional to the 1,100,000 men said now to be under arms.

Referring to the supplementary estimate, Harold J. Tennant, under secretary of state for war, said the official view was that this further million men ought to be sufficient, so far as the government was able to see at present, to crown British arms with success. He declined to give the actual numbers of men enlisted, but he remarked that the figures recently given by the prime minister, which were roughly in the neighborhood of 1,100,000, were below rather than above the actual total.

The present plans of the war office, Mr. Tennant continued, was to duplicate the territorial force, making one battalion for home defense and the other for foreign service.

APPEAL TO LAMAR IN U. S. SUPREME COURT LAST HOPE

Attorneys Henry Peeples and Harry Alexander Now on Way to Washington for Last Court Battle

WRIT ARGUED IN STATE CAPITOL ON THURSDAY

If Justice Lamar Grants Writ, Famous Case Will Be Reviewed by Federal Court. Will Appeal Immediately

Leo M. Frank has lost again. The state supreme court on Thursday afternoon declined to certify to a writ of error which would have permitted Frank to carry his case to the United States supreme court.

The application for a writ of error was presented by Tye, Peeples & Jordan et al., attorneys for Frank. Had this writ been certified the decision of the court affirming the action of Judge Ben H. Hill in sustaining the state's demurrer to Frank's motion to set aside the verdict declaring him guilty of the murder of Mary Phagan, would have been reviewed by the United States supreme court.

One other recourse is left to Frank to get his case before that tribunal. He can apply to Justice Joseph R. Lamar, of the United States supreme court, who acts for this district, for a writ of error. Should Justice Lamar grant the writ, then the case will get on the docket of the federal supreme court, despite the failure of the state supreme court to certify the writ.

Attorneys Henry Peeples and Harry A. Alexander left Friday afternoon for Washington, where they will make application to Justice Lamar for a writ of error. It is expected that they will appear before Justice Lamar some time Saturday afternoon, and that he will pass upon the application by Wednesday of next week, the date upon which the remittur from the state supreme court will reach the Fulton superior court.

Unless Justice Lamar allows the writ of error before the remittur from the state supreme court comes down Frank will be arraigned before Judge Ben H. Hill and a new date fixed for the execution of the death sentence.

Frank was notified of the state supreme court's adverse action by a Journal reporter. He refused to make any comment, but was visibly disappointed.

The application for a writ of error was presented to the justices of the state supreme court in chambers. There was no written opinion by the court. The decision was not unexpected, with the construction placed upon their previous decision by Frank's attorneys and saw no grounds justifying them in-certifying to the writ of error. They simply declined such a certificate.

In the event Justice Lamar takes the same view as the state supreme court and refuses Frank a writ of error his fate will be sealed so far as the courts are concerned and his only hope to escape the death penalty will lie in an appeal to the state prison commission and the governor for a commutation of sentence.

If Lamar Refuses Writ, Frank Can Appeal to Other Judges

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—A review of the Frank case by the supreme court rests largely with Justice Lamar, who is assigned as the justice in which Georgia is located. Custom of the justices requires that applications for writs of error from the district court first by the justice assigned to the circuit in which the case originates. Should Justice Lamar refuse the writ, the case would go on to the court's docket and would not be heard for about two years unless advanced.

Should Justice Lamar decline to issue the writ, he might consent to an application being presented to the entire bench of the supreme court, of their own volition, make application to the other justices.

BOY IS STABBED TO DEATH BY ANOTHER YOUTH IN A FIGHT

Fatal Row Follows Attack on Younger Brother of Lad Killed, According to Hospital Attaches

Homer Thompson, a sixteen-year-old boy, died at the Grady hospital Thursday night as the result of knife wounds inflicted, it is charged, by Dewey Henderson, a youth of the same age, at the Thompson home in Chattahoochee, Ga.

Thompson, upon coming home Thursday evening, was told by his younger brother, Sam, that Henderson had mistreated him, according to the hospital attaches. Thompson left the home, the Henderson boy, it is alleged, and a fight followed. Later the Henderson boy returning to the fight, stabbed Thompson four times, it is said. The Henderson boy then fled and had not been arrested Friday morning, though authorities are looking for him.

Grady hospital was notified and the Thompson family removed there, where he died a few minutes later.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Thompson; four brothers, R., J. T., J. H. and Sam Thompson, and three sisters, Misses Annie and Alice May Thompson, and Mrs. Mamie Ramsey.

The body was removed to Greenberg & Bond's chapel and funeral services will be held from Mason's church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment will be in the church yard.

SPEAKER CHAMP CLARK ANSWERS SENATOR LODGE

Scores Massachusetts Senator for His Attack on President Wilson

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 20.—Champ Clark, speaker of the house of representatives, when told today that Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts, had criticised the president and the Democratic administration in an address last night in Boston, said:

"I regret Senator Lodge has turned jingo in his old age and seems to be anxious for war. He criticised President Wilson for keeping out of war with Mexico, and not precipitating war with Turkey touching the Tenedos incident because some semi-idiot dressed in a little brief authority cut fantastic capers before high heaven. In such perilous times as these some madcap is liable to do disagreeable things at any time and usually these things can be set right by a little common sense, and President Wilson seems to have an abundance of that exceedingly valuable quality. So Senator Lodge would do well to smooth his ruffled plumage and use his undoubted ability to help the president keep us out of trouble. He need not doubt the fighting qualities of the American people. That never fails."

LOSER IN BATTLE OF LIFE, AGED MAN SEEKS DEATH

Crawled Under Viaduct to Die in Cold, but Is Rescued

He had crawled up under the Washington street viaduct to die, an old man whose flesh shriveled blue from out the wild tattering of rags huddled about his body. He had fought the fight and found it too much for him. The world had turned the back of its hand, and so, like a soldier who has met his death wound, he sought the world's loneliest spot from which to leave it.

When they found him it was in the dark hour just before Friday's dawn, when the wind from out the west wailed cold down Decatur street, banging the empty doorways and rattling the are lights into a ghastly blue.

A negro lurched into the pitchy blackness looking for shelter from the storm and stumbled over the unconscious body, dragged far up under the concrete. He thought it was a dead man. So he ran. On Decatur street he stopped at the Christian Helpers' league and chattered out his discovery. Then he ran on.

S. J. Coogler, who provides thirty-four beds for homeless white men in the winter weather, sent an assistant who brought the old man to the home. His hands were cracked with blood where the wind had chapped them, his white hair fluttered like a shroud, and he was quite cold from head to foot.

They fed him beef tea and hot broth, they bathed his bony body in tepid water, and they wrapped him close in warm blankets. The foul tatters which covered him they burned. Friday they said the old man would live.

When he came around, he pleaded with them to let him die. "Why did you find me?" he whimpered. "I looked for rest and I had almost found it, for I am tired—tired." Then he gave a name, James Hippolyte. There was a day, he said, when Detroit knew him for a shrewd criminal lawyer, but that was many years ago. "They were too much for me," he said. "I could not keep in the race. So I went down a little bit farther year after year. These clothes I have worn for six months. They were given me by a tramp who said they were too dirty for him."

The league will take care of Hippolyte until he gets well again. Despite lack of room and lack of money, the league is doing stanch work with such old men as this and others who are suffering from the cold. Six sleepers were cared for over the requisite number Friday night. Hippolyte was the forty-first sleeper.

ENGLAND CUTS OFF TEA SUPPLY OF THE GERMANS

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Great Britain today prohibited the exportation of tea to all continental ports except those of the countries of the allies and of Spain and Portugal. This prohibition is due to indications that Germany is receiving large supplies of tea through the Netherlands.

JAPANESE AND CHINESE ARE BUYING MUCH COTTON

Mills Reported Running to Capacity and Price Is 8 Cents Per Pound

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 20.—Japanese and Chinese manufacturers are buying cotton in this country before and they seem willing to purchase all they can find vessel space for. Their mills are reported running to capacity. The price is, eight cents a pound. Germany is understood to be bidding from 18 to 20 cents, with virtually no orders being filled and her own stock near the vanishing point.

Cotton acreage in California only recently has been developed and it is generally believed it will be reduced next year.

OFFICIALS STILL WAITING FOR ANSWER OF TURKEY

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—No further report came to the state or navy departments today on the firing of Turkish forts at Smyrna upon the launch of the American cruiser Tennessee.

Officials were awaiting dispatches from Ambassador Morgenthau and Captain Decker. Meanwhile they maintained their confident attitude that the incident would be explained satisfactorily by the Turkish government.

HEADACHES

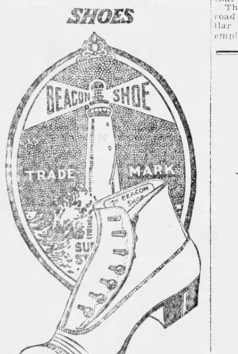

Thousands of men and women suffer from headaches every day, often thousands have headaches every week or every month, and still others have headaches occasionally, but not at regular intervals. The best Doctor is often unable to find the cause of many of these headaches, and in most other cases, knowing the cause, he does not know what will remove it, so as to give a permanent cure. All he can do is to prescribe the usual pain relievers, which give temporary relief, and the headache returns as usual, and treatment is again necessary. If you suffer from headaches, no matter what their nature, take Anti-kamnia Tablets, and the results will be satisfactory in the highest degree. You can obtain them at all druggists in any quantity, 10c worth, 25c worth or more. Ask for A-K Tablets.

CHAMBER THANKS WOMEN FOR ARRANGING DINNER

Resolution Thanking Federation Was Introduced by Colonel R. J. Lowry

The City Federation of Women's clubs and the Haberham chapter D. A. R., under the leadership respectively of Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin and Mrs. William Lawson Peel, were formally thanked Thursday by the house of representatives of the chamber of commerce, for undertaking and carrying to a successful completion the Georgia Products day luncheon.

The resolution thanking the two organizations were introduced by Colonel Robert J. Lowry.

Interesting features of the meeting of the "house of representatives" were addresses by H. G. Hastings and St. Elmo Massengale, who told of the plans for the Corn show this year and the Hog and Hominy carnival, which will be held in conjunction with the show.

Walter G. Cooper, secretary of the chamber, urged the representatives to give their influence to the campaign to secure homes for the boys who are coming to the corn show.

Present at the meeting were:

Mell R. Wilkinson, H. G. Hastings, Dr. H. E. Stockbridge, W. H. Stentz, J. E. Bodenhamer, Kendall Weisiger, E. P. McBurney, Lee Ashcraft, A. J. Orme, E. E. Pomeroy, W. A. Wimbish, J. A. McCurry, L. ALDERMAN MADDOX AND MAYOR HOLD CONFERENCE

Visit Creates Surprise, as Two Have Not Been Political Chums

Alderman J. W. Maddox, of the Fifth ward, called at the office of Mayor Woodward Friday morning and conferred with him upwards of half an hour, with no one else present.

There would be nothing out of the ordinary in this statement if the visitor had not been Alderman Maddox.

He and the mayor have never been what could be called the best of friends politically, and it is not customary for the members of council who oppose the mayor to call on him in his office. They have a habit of staying away.

But Alderman Maddox and Mayor Woodward seem to have discovered that they like each other, in spite of of political clashes, and they were smiling as they emerged from the mayor's office.

The alderman explained that the purpose of his visit was to ask the mayor not to give him too much committee work next year, on account of a grading contract which will keep him out of the city several months. He is grading the right of way of a new road which Hartow county is building across Altoona mountain too complete an automobile highway from Atlanta to Chattanooga.

NEGRO ASSASSIN RUNS WILD AT CHATTANOOGA

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 20.—The unknown negro assassin who has terrorized the outlying sections of Chattanooga for the past two weeks secured his third victim last night when he murdered W. H. Thomas, a grocer.

The negro fired a load of buckshot at the merchant through a window, practically tearing off his head.

Rewards offered by the sheriff and doubled vigilance upon the part of the city and county officers have been unavailing.

Night watchmen have been specially picked by the assassin as he has murdered two and fired at two more.

CONGRESSMAN BARTLETT VISITOR IN ATLANTA

Confers With Senator Hoke Smith on Pending National Legislation

Congressman Charles L. Bartlett was in Atlanta Friday, in conference with Senator Hoke Smith, concerning legislative matters in which they feel a common interest. Judge Bartlett expects to return to Macon Friday night, remaining at home until the middle of next week, when he will go to Washington, to attend the sessions of congress, beginning in December.

Judge Bartlett looks better than in several years, and is reay for another strenuous session in Washington. The judge was not a candidate for re-election from the Sixth district, refusing to make the race on the advice of his physicians, notwithstanding assurances of support from friends throughout the district. He will retire to private life on March 4, next, after a continuous service of twenty years in the national house of representatives.

DYNAMITERS OF FISH VIGOROUSLY PROSECUTED

State Game Commissoner Charles L. Davis is making a determined campaign against persons who violate the game laws by dynamiting fish in ponds and streams. He has notified all county wardens to prosecute to the fullest extent of the law all such offenders and numerous convictions have been obtained.

One of the most active wardens against the dynamiters is L. A. Free, of Miller county. From June to October he secured convictions of twelve dynamiters and these were assessed fines ranging from $10 to $40.

KIDNEY OR BLADDER WEAK?

Just Mix Juniper and Buchu, Old Folks' Recipe.

The symptoms of diseased kidneys and bladder: Scalding, dribbling, straining or too frequent passage of urine; forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; stitches and pains in the back; growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps, unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and despondency, Diabetes, Bright's Disease. The moment you have any of the above symptoms or a dull headache and rheumatic twinges get from any reliable druggist a 14-ounce bottle of Stuart's Buchu and Juniper. Take a tablespoonful after meals. Drink plenty of pure, fresh water and abstain from eating sugar, sweets or highly seasoned foods. Your kidneys and bladder will then act fine and natural. Stuart's Buchu and Juniper has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys; aso to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer hurts you to pass water, and is old folks' recipe for weak kidneys.—(Advt.)

The committee on municipal program, which has been drafting a new model charter and home rule constitutional amendments, presented a partial report in the form of sections dealing with the council, the city manager, the civil service and efficiency board.

METHODISTS TO MERGE THEIR INSTITUTIONS

North Georgia Conference to Meet at Rome Next Year

BY REV. L. P. WINTER.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MARIETTA, Ga., Nov. 20.—The North Georgia conference this morning voted to adopt the report of its special committee in favor of merging Emory college, at Oxford, into Emory university, to be located at Atlanta. The committee was appointed to investigate this question, and its report strongly favored the merger of the two institutions, and its adoption by the conference was not contested.

The question of this merger must be submitted also to the South Georgia and the Florida Methodist conferences, and by them approved before it will become of force and in effect. It is the belief here, however, that these conferences will agree to the decision made by the Methodists at Marietta.

The merger of Emory college and Emory university will not mean the abolition of the college at Oxford. That institution will be maintained by the Methodist church as the collegiate department of the Atlanta university.

The session of the conference this morning was marked by a great speech by Bishop Warren A. Candler, in which he discussed, especially, the new university at Atlanta, and, generally, the question of Christian education. He was pronounced in his remarks as favoring denominational education to secular education.

After Bishop Candler's speech, the conference voted to hold its next meeting at Rome one year hence.

AGED GRANDFATHER OF MARY PHAGAN IS DEAD

Body Will Be Buried Beside Grave of Murdered Girl, in Marietta

Mr. William Jackson Phagan, aged sixty-one years, died Friday morning at his home in Marietta following a lingering illness. He is survived by his wife and eight children. His children are C. J. Dobbins, of Marietta; Miss Ruth Phagan, of Marietta.

He was the grandfather of little Mary Phagan, who was killed in Atlanta on April 26, 1913.

The funeral will be held from the Second Baptist church in Marietta Sunday at 11 a. m., Rev. Mr. Adams, of Atlanta, officiating.

The interment will be in the Marietta cemetery beside the grave of little Mary Phagan.

J. H. CARTER, MEMBER OF LEGISLATURE, IS SHOT

C. L. Sibley, Opponent in New Bacon County Election Thursday, Is Held

(By Associated Press.)

BAXLEY, Ga., Nov. 20.—Dr. J. M. Carter, yesterday elected to the state legislature from the new county of Bacon, was shot and probably fatally wounded in a street difficulty at Alma, the new county seat, today, according to information reaching here.

Floyd Carter, a brother of Dr. Carter, was shot in the thigh and a bystander named Weaver received a bullet in the leg during the shooting.

C. L. Sibley, who opposed Carter in the election and who is alleged to have done the shooting, is said to have received a severe cut in one arm, while one finger was severed. He has been placed in jail at Douglas.

Sibley is postmaster at Alma. Dr. Carter served in the last session of the legislature from Appling county.

The trouble today is said to have started between Sibley and Floyd Carter, and when Dr. Carter interfered the shooting began.

Dr. Carter has been removed to a hospital at Douglas.

ALLEGED SHOPLIFTER ACQUITTED BY JURY

Miss Kate Culver, one of three women indicted several months ago on a charge of shoplifting from a Whitehall street department store, was found not guilty by a jury in Judge Ben H. Hill's division of the superior court, Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. J. E. McDuffie, who was arrested at the same time with Miss Culver, was recently convicted and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

Miss Culver was represented by Attorney Albert Kemper.

THEATERS

Standing room has been at a premium all this week at the busy Forsyth. The bill for next week looks like a winner, too. The headline feature will be Homer Lind and his company of five players in "The Singing Teacher." Han Ping Chien, the famous Chinese magician, and his corps of assistants, will offer one of the sensations, and Doris Wilson and company in "Through the Looking Glass" will be another.

"The Winning of Barbara Worth" will be the attraction at the Atlanta Saturday matinee and night. No theatrical offering of the current season has aroused more interest or caused more pleasureable anticipation than has this play of virile life and action in the great plains and deserts of the southwest.

The keynote of the story of "The Silent Voice,' in which the distinguished actor, Otis Skinner, is said to have carried to a great success this season, is world old. a man stricken by God with a terrible infirmity who is tempted to curse his Creator but who is shown by a good woman that he should bear his cross in meekness. Mr. Skinner comes to the Atlanta theater next Monday and Tuesday evenings. A special matinee will be given on Tuesday. Seats are now on sale.

SKIN TROUBLE ITCHED AND BURNED

On Body. Could Not Rest. Broke Out in Pimples All Over. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed.

R. F. D. No. 1, Box 164, Bridgewater, N. C.—"I was suffering with a skin trouble which began after a spell of sickness six years ago. It was mostly on my body and I could not rest for the itching and burning. It began like a nettle rash, then it would break out in pimples all over me. I would sting and burn and itch all over and I scratched until I was almost raw. At times I could hardly bear anything to rub against the parts that were affected.

"I do not know how many remedies, soaps, etc., I tried but none did me any good. Then I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they seemed to be the very thing that I needed. I only used them four weeks and they completely healed me. I have not been bothered with the trouble since." Signed: Mrs. H. I. Patton, Jan. 31, 1914.

RAILROADS GRANT LOW FARES FOR CARNIVAL

Special Round Trip Rates Announced for Hog and Hominy Festival

Recognizing the importance of the hog and hominy carnival, which will be held in Atlanta December 3, in conjunction with the Georgia Corn show, as an important factor in making known Georgia's ability to grow things other than cotton, all of the railroads entering Atlanta have just announced a series of special round trip rates to this city from almost every town in the state, in effect December 1, 2, 3 and 4. The rates are unusually low, being in many instances only a little more than the regular one-way fare.

As a result of this co-operation with Atlanta's merchants, there is expected to be an influx of visitors here to see the carnival and the corn show, such as has not been witnessed since the Shriners were in town. The Atlanta Ad Men's club, which is promoting the carnival, regards the action of the railroads as one destined to bring much business to Atlanta and they are loud in their praise of the big systems for their generous action.

Tariffs have just been issued pointing out that the following railroad lines will grant the rate reductions.

Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic; Atlantic Coast Line; Central of Georgia; Charleston and ..estern Carolina, Georgia; Georgia and Florida; Georgia Florida and Alabama; Georgia Northern; Georgia Southern and Florida; Georgia Southwestern and Gulf; Louisville and Nashville, Macon, Dublin and Savannah; Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis; Seaboard Air Line; Southern, western and Atlantic, and Wrightsville and Tennile railroads.

An indication of the extent of the cut in rates to be given by the railroads as part of their campaign to "boost" the carnival, is shown in the following table giving the special round trip rates to Atlanta during the carnival period compared with the regular rates charged from the places named. The towns quoted represent only a small fraction of those to which the new rates will apply. They were picked at random, merely to show the comparative rates:

Town.	Carnival rate. Round trip.	Regular rate.
Albany	$6.55	$7.50
Americus	5.40	6.74
Griffin	1.50	1.72

JUDGE POWERLESS TO STOP BARKING OF PRIZE DOGS

Brings Suit in Another Court Against Owner of Dog Kennel

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 20.—What he calls "wholesale dog fighting, dog barking and dog growling" have caused Judge Fling W. Bartholomew, of Marion county superior court No. 5, to appeal to another judge of the superior court to send him relief from what Judge Bartholomew considers a grave nuisance. Although in the court house the judge is clothed with power to send to jail any person so rude as to commit an act which could be construed as contempt, at his home he is powerless to do more than protest against the canine quarrels and musical efforts. Therefore the judge has brought suit for $1,000 damages before another superior court judge against William E. Rice, who is said to "operate a dog kennel" next door to the judge's home.

BRAVE WOMAN SAVES AGED MAN FROM DEATH IN FIRE

Mrs. Nellie Jernigan Carries Man 70 Years Old From Burning House

Mrs. Nellie Jernigan, of 57 East Fair street, played a heroine's role in a fire which destroyed her home Thursday night by carry to safety J. Dennard, a man seventy years old, the only other occupant of the house.

Fire broke out about 10 o'clock. The house is next door to Dr. Noble's sanitarium, but the patients there were quieted by the self-control of Miss Sarah Meullin, head night nurse, who ran from ward to ward calming those who had begun to deap, shivering, from their beds.

Mrs. Jernigan ran into the street clad only in her night clothes, when the fire was discovered. She deposited some valuables on the sidewalk and then returned to the burning dwelling for Mr. Dennard. Damage to her home was estimated at $1,200.

BODY OF DR. MANGUM SENT TO SELMA, ALA.

The body of Dr. William Wightman Mangum, who died in a private sanitarium Wednesday, was taken Thursday afternoon to Selma, Ala., for funeral and interment.

Dr. Mangum was a prominent physician of Rome, Ga. He was a member of the Eufaula, Ala., lodge, B. P. O. Elks, and was 47 years old. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Misses Anna Will and Elizabeth Mangum; two stepdaughters, Misses Martha and Jack Long, and one stepson, H. D. Long.

Dr. Mangum moved to Rome, Ga., about five years ago, from Eufaula, Ala. He enjoyed a large practice and was highly esteemed.

MEETING IS CALLED TO AID BELGIAN REFUGEES

Permanent Organization Will Be Effected Here on November 24

R. F. Shedden, Atlanta chairman, is sending letters to all persons interested in bringing Belgium refugees to Georgia, requesting them to meet November 24 at the Piedmont hotel and form a permanent organization. The letter follows:

Dear Sir:

Tuesday morning, November 24, at 10 o'clock, there will assemble in the convention hall of the Piedmont hotel, Atlanta, Ga., members of special committees appointed by many counties and cities throughout the state; railroad officials; delegates from chambers of commerce and other civic bodies; large land owners; real estate men, and good citizens from various points, to discuss the wisdom of forming a permanent organization to bring good Belgian refugee farmers and their families (now in England, France and Holland) to Georgia and the south.

It is practically unanimously admitted, that, because of terrible circumstances, an unusual opportunity offers that will never come again and therefore the matter should be given the best thought and efforts of strong and experienced leaders, and the help of everybody. All are urged to be present as citizens to assist in shaping up preliminary plans. Thousands of foreign farmers are not coming this way, if competent men, backed by an indorsed commission, are not sent after them, and every detail planned out in advance.

We must select men of the best executive ability as trustees of this work, who will employ proper assistants, clerks, etc., to go abroad and invite and interest these people, and then distribute them carefully, on the arrival of shiploads, in the United States to colonies, or such small scattered farms as they may decide, without a hitch.

The task is large because Canada and many colonies and countries are already offering their inducements, but Georgia's soil and climate in themselves, properly presented, will win against most arguments, and should be presented quickly and in a definite and businesslike shape.

This meeting is called by the Brooks County Industrial club, who are "some farmers" themselves, and certainly know what the country needs.

Very truly yours,
R. F. SHEDDEN,
Atlanta Chairman.

SCHOOL CHILDREN CALM WHEN FIRE BREAKS OUT

Crew Street Pupils Not Alarmed by Small Blaze Next Door

Four hundred and fifty school children in Crew street school sat in their seats and continued their work Friday morning while the fire apparatus went clanging up to the English Commercial school next door and while parents from the neighborhood came running to Crew street school in great excitement.

Soot afire in a chimney in the English Commercial school burned downward and shot a flame into one of the classrooms. One of the girls ran to the principal's office and gave the alarm. Mrs. Wise, the principal, ordered the fire drill and the girls, 250 in number, marched quietly out of the building.

The blaze was so small the janitor put it out with a hand extinguisher by the time the fire apparatus arrived, and the girls in a few minutes marched back to their rooms and resumed their work.

The behaviour of the children in Crew Street school, which adjoins the English Commercial school with only a few feet between the two buildings, was the feature of the incident.

Miss Perrin, the principal of Crew street, went into the street to watch the English Commercial school and be ready to order the fire drill in her school if it should become necessary. Fire Chief Cummings stood ready to let her know when the moment arrived. It did not arrive and they went on with their work.

Buying "Atlanta-Made" Pure Food

At the J. M. High Pure Food Store

(Being the interesting experiences of an economical Atlanta housekeeper)

I achieved yesterday what I have always believed to be the impossible. I have been reading the attractive advertisements of the J. M. High Company Pure Food Store, and I started out yesterday morning to put them to the test. Going down to the Pure Food Store of High's, I placed the list of what I wanted before one of the clerks, and I was actually surprised when he promptly filled the order—and every item listed was taken care of in "Atlanta-Made" foods. I went a skeptic; I came away a believer. I bought, prepared and served lunch and dinner with "Atlanta-Made" foodstuffs. And were the "Atlanta-Made" goods up to grade? They were far superior to the other brands that I have been buying—consequently, hereafter all my groceries come from High's Pure Food Store, and they will all be "Made-in-Atlanta."

Let me tell you how it happened; I want to go into detail, for I believe the housewives of Atlanta will appreciate the truth of the matter, given first hand from an Atlanta housekeeper who is all the time trying to serve good meals and at the same time keep the grocery bill down. I have figured this matter out—I very carefully did it last night —and I have come to the conclusion that I (or any other Atlanta housekeeper as for that) can save 20 per cent on the grocery account by buying "Atlanta-Made" pure foods at High's Pure Food Store tomorrow and worth something to you? It certainly is worth a whole lot to me. It is going to bring down the high cost of living in my home, and I believe that when you have read this voluntary letter you will decide that it would be a good thing for you to do, too. Now, don't you think it would be? Suppose you go to High's Pure Food Store tomorrow and see for yourself that what I have said is true.

But, first, let me tell you exactly how I did it—how I achieved that which I have always believed to be the impossible.

You know where High's Pure Food store is and how to get there, don't you? It's in what they call the "Annex," right beside the main department store. You enter from either Whitehall or Broad streets, or you can just as easily go into the Pure Food Store from the first floor of the main High store.

Well, I went down about 10 o'clock yesterday morning, and the first thing that attracted my attention as I went in was the exhibition of sturdy "Cornfield" hams and shoulders ("Picnic" is what they call the shoulders) that greeted my eyes. These are raised here in Georgia and smoked in hickory right here in Atlanta. I bought an 8-pound ham at 16½c a pound and a 5-pound shoulder at 13½c a pound. Then I bought a pound carton of "Cornfield" sliced bacon that only cost me 29c.

Everything was "Made-in-Atlanta"—that's all you could hear the customers and the clerks talking about. It really made me feel like shouting, after the manner of my oldest boy who is in school, "Rah, rah, rah—rah, rah, rah—rah, rah, rah—Atlanta! Atlanta!" The three "rah's" and the yell wouldn't have been out of place a bit.

But to continue with my story of how I did it—I bought some fresh, warm "Tip-Top" rolls at 10c a dozen, and two "Tip-Top" loaves that were just as fresh and warm, and I only paid 5c apiece for them. Then I saw some "Stone's Wrapped Cakes" that looked good to me. There were six varieties of them, but I bought one of each variety—they only cost 10c apiece, you know. I've heard so much about "Capitola" and "Miss Dixie" flour, both of them made right here in Atlanta, that I decided to get a 24-pound sack of each of them, for I only had to pay 95c for each sack. I was the most interested person in the world, I thought, until I looked about me, and then I found that there were several other ladies buying who were just as interested as I was. I bought a No. 5 tin of "Uniform" Pure Georgia Cane Syrup and also a No. 5 tin of "Wiregrass" Pure Georgia cane, for I got them at 29c a tin. Isn't that wonderful, now? I got three packages of Thanksgiving Rolled Oats for 25c and three cans of Thanksgiving Hominy for the same price. And they are both so fresh and good. Then I saw a beautiful exhibition of Block's Celebrated Crispettes in 4-pound tins. They're regular 50c tins, but they only charged me 35c for the tin I bought. They're selling them regular this week for 35c at High's Pure Food Store. I saw a display of this new "Atlanta-Made" shortening that they say is so good. It's "Cotton Bloom" Shortening. I bought a No. 4 tin for 31c and a No. 10 tin for 76c, and after trying it in preparing lunch and dinner today I wouldn't use anything else for shortening hereafter. I bought a bottle of Massa's Horseradish for 10c, a jar of Massa's Mustard for 19c, and a bottle of Massa's Tabasco for 29c. Did you know that you could do that at High's Pure Food Store? I didn't until my visit there this morning. I bought a pound tin of "Uno" Coffee, the kind they roast fresh every day, and it only cost me 30c; then I bought two tins of "Farm Bell" New Pack Peas (choice they are) for 25c. Think of it, two tins for a quarter. I bought some of High's own "Home-Aid" brands, such as Mincemeat and Butter. And then I went home. But I'm going to High's Pure Food Store again.

I was just simply delighted with the cleanliness of the whole store, and with the manner in which orders were promptly filled. They're certainly on to their business at High's Pure Food Store, and you'd enjoy going in just to see, even if you don't mean to buy anything. Then the little tea tables where they serve such delicious tea and the restaurant—oh, it all appeals to a woman who is interested in good things to eat, and it's really economy to go to High's.

MERCHANTS CALL OFF JOURNEY TO GRIFFIN

Cold Weather Prevents Motor Trip to Spalding County Fair

The severe cold weather of Friday made it necessary for twenty-eight of Atlanta's leading merchants to forego a visit to Spalding county's big fair at Griffin. These merchants had made all arrangements to go to Griffin Friday morning in automobiles. There were to be seven cars and Mayor Woodward was to head the delegation.

Several days ago the Atlanta Retail Merchants' association received a most cordial invitation from the officials of the Spalding county fair for a delegation of Atlanta merchants to be their special guests Friday.

The directors of the association promptly accepted the invitation and Secretary Grover McGahee worked out the arrangements for the trip. Seven merchants proffered their big automobiles to take the party to Griffin and return and twenty-one other merchants announced their intention to make the trip.

But these plans were made without consulting Old Man Winter and Friday morning the thermometer registered below twenty degrees making a through-the-country trip a hardship rather than a pleasure. Although the merchants were keenly anticipating the visit to the Griffin fair, they were unwilling to expose themselves to the biting norwester and the trip was called off.

LeBreton, whose duties also include work with the general board of the navy, of which Admiral Dewey is chairman.

Other Schools Dismiss, but Atlanta Normal Holds Out-door Sessions in Sleeping Bags and Blankets

While seven grades were dismissed from Edgewood school and other schools of the city Friday morning on account of the cold weather, 175 children of the first, second, third and fourth grades of the Atlanta Normal school studied their lessons outdoors.

In the sheltered yard of the Normal school on Lee street, where the wind did not strike them and the winter sunshine beat down warm, little tots of six and eight years wrapped themselves cozily in blanket and bag and recited spelling as if the mercury were nowhere near 20 degrees.

"There wasn't a single complaint,' said Miss May Postell, the principal, who originated the outdoor classes. 'When the children got here this morning we warmed those who were cold by exercise. Some of them we gave hot water and malted milk. Then they got into the blanket bags and have been warm as toast all the morning.'

Many of the teachers, she said, preferred to come into the open air, declaring that it was much warmer outdoors than in the steam-heated building.

TWO LOST HUNTERS FOUND NEAR DEATH IN WOODS

MARQUUETTE, Mich., Nov. 20.—Weakened by hunger and exposure, George Millen and George Huntington, two Ann Arbor business men who had been lost in the woods since Monday, were found today in a deserted dugout nine miles north of Camp Newton, from where they set out on a deer hunt. The two hunters had suffered intensely from the cold and had nothing to eat for nearly three days.

Three hundred and fifty men covered more than 1,200 square miles of almost trackless forest in the search for the missing men. A reward of $1,000 for their rescue had been offered by United States Senator Townsend and other members of the Newton-Huntington club.

STATE MUTUAL CASE GOES BACK TO COURT

Supreme Court Holds Judge Fite Was Disqualified in Receivership Action

Holding that he was disqualified to preside in the case because he was related to a party at interest by affinity within the degree prohibited by law, the state supreme court Friday morning decided that the action of Judge A. W. Fite of the Cherokee circuit, in appointing a receiver for the State Mutual Life Insurance company, of Rome, was null and void.

The state supreme court on Friday morning also handed down decisons in the two cases brought by Insurance Commissioner W. A. Wright vs. the State Mutual Life Insurance company, of Rome, which cases sought to have the affairs of the company placed in the hands of the insurance commissioner in order that its policyholders and creditors might not have to stand the expense of the fees which have to be paid out if its affairs were administered by a receiver.

One of the petitions of the insurance commissioner, brought through Attorney General Warren A. Grice, was declined by Judge Moses Wright, of the Rome circuit, who had disqualified himself to preside upon the petition for receiver filed by Walton, et al, three policyholders.

Another petition of the insurance commissioner was filed with Judge Fite, who had entertained the Walton petition and had appointed a receiver. Judge Fite also refused the petition of the insurance commissioner, holding that the act of 1912 under which it was filed, was not exclusive as to the remedy for protecting the interests of policyholders and creditors, was not an exclusive remedy and inasmuch as the petition of policyholders for a receiver had already been granted he must deny the petition of the insurance commissioner.

Both the decision of Judge Wright and that of Judge Fite, in these cases, were affirmed the supreme court holding that the act of 1912, providing for the administration of the affairs of insolvent insurance companies by the state insurance commissioner, was not exclusive so as to deprive policyholders or creditors of their right to make application to the court for such relief as a court of law or equity might have afforded them under the laws existing at the time of the passage of the statute in question.

The fact that all of the actions of Judge Fite in the case have been held to be nugatory will mean, it is said, that the affairs of the company will be placed back into the hands of the temporary receiver until the case can be brought upon its merits before a judge who is qualified to sit upon it.

The cases involving the solvency of the State Mutual Life Insurance company, of Rome, have been in the courts for months and it will probably be several months longer before they are finally decided.

The two supreme court justices who disqualified were Justices Evans and Lumpkin. Their places were filled by Judge John T. Pendleton, of the Fulton superior court and Judge R. W. Freeman, of the Coweta circuit.

SCHOOL INSPECTION CHECKS DISEASE

"School inspection has proven a great step towards locating and checking disease in Atlanta," declared Dr. W. E. Quillian, president of the city board of health, in the first of a series of lectures to the social service class of the Anti-Tuberculosis society Thursday night.

Dr. Quillian declared that one year ago there were 350 diphtheria signs posted in the city, while today there is only one.

The city health has been greatly improved, he told the class, particularly by the checking of contagious diseases, and as example he cited the fact that there are only only four cases of scarlet fever in Atlanta.

In the course of his talk Dr. Quillian declared that one-fifth of all children die before the age of five years and that 80 per cent of the dieases killing them could be prevented.

TO PROTECT ADVERTISERS FROM UNWORTHY SCHEMES

Ad Men's Club Has "Protection Committee" to Look After Their Interests

Efficient work in the protection of Atlanta advertisers, and the certification of solicitors with worthy propositions has been started by the "protection committee" of the Ad Men's club and is well under way. One hundred and twenty-five of the city's leading advertisers have signed agreements to refer all doubtful propositions to the committee and demand the committee's "blue card" of merit before they spend their money. Other advertisers are enrolling, and before many more days have passed it is expected the advertising community will have been enrolled solidly against wasteful and unreliable schemes.

The members of the committee, to any one of whom a questionable matter may be referred, are H. G. Hastings, J. H. Atchison and Sidney Wellhouse.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take Salts for Backache or Bladder trouble

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water, also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble. (Advt.)

"Here We Are, Safe and Sound"

Golliwog, Chief High Zing of the Toys

Gives Out Interesting Interview on His Arrival at His New Home.

Bids All Atlanta, Young and Old, to His First Public Appearance Saturday in the Bazaar, at Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.

Long live Golliwog, Chief High Zing of the Toys!

He is here safe and sound, and all his followers.

Tomorrow he holds public reception for the children and grown-ups of Atlanta; he wants them all to come and make merry.

He was in high spirits when interviewed; filled with the joy of living; glad to get to his new home after a wonderful trip across the Atlantic.

GOLLIWOG A QUAINT FELLOW.

But to quote him—he is a merry little fellow, although chief high Zing of the whole populous toy world; very plain, with none of these high-sounding phrases that the other great kings affect—so his own words:

"Gee, it's great to be here in this big, fine city; well worth the long trip we had to get here.

"Let me tell you about it—

"You know they are shooting up everybody and everything over in Europe. The minute a boat pokes its nose out of Germany—zip, zowie, boom—good-bye!

PLANS CHRISTMAS TRIP.

"Well, it came along time for me to start my Christmas trip and my brave lieutenant Zis came to me and asked would we risk it.

"'Sure,' said I. 'We must make it to Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.'s; think of all our little friends over there waiting for us.'

THE GATHERING OF THE CLAN.

"'Aye, aye, Captain, your word is the law,' spoke gallant Zis, and was off taking the word to all my peoples throughout Toyland to gather themselves and their belongings for the trip to Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.'s.

"Well sir, finer lads you never saw! Every gallant son and daughter of the land of Toys made ready at once.

"Here we are, you see, every one of us, and all our belongings, our tools, our baggage, our beds, our pets, everything. But how did we get here?

THE FLAG OF SANTA CLAUS.

"Well, we set sail from Bremen. On the second day out we were all on deck having a merry time, bands were playing, the young folks dancing, when Zis, on the lookout, saw a big warship ahead. I went to the bridge.

"'Hoist the flag of Santa Claus,' was my first order. 'Continue full speed ahead; let the bands keep playing; young folks dance on.'

"Up went the flag of Santa Claus, and watching through my glasses I soon saw that the warship recognized the flag. All hands on deck seemed busy—then from the topmost mast we saw the White Flag spread to the winds.

THE WIRELESS AND THE SALUTE.

"Soon a wireless message came:

"'We salute you, Zing, King of The Toys—continue your journey in peace;' and as we passed them their band was playing and all hands had lined up on their port side to wave us bon voyage and Merry Christmas.

"And so it was, all during the trip, with the flag of good Santa Claus flying, every ship we passed saluted us.

"It was a happy, happy voyage—not an accident to mar it; all were in high spirits; we had games and music and banquets and dances all the way over.

ALL READY.

"Now we are here all safe and sound. Tomorrow we shall hold our first public reception—and bid all Atlanta, young and old, welcome to our new home—The Bazaar, at Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.'s."

"A Building Stitch in Time---"

Among those who are demonstrating their faith in the build-now movement is the Southern Railway company. This company provided funds last spring for extensive construction work for the improvement of its lines but did not allow the business depression caused by the war to interfere with the progress of the work. The management of the road rightly considered that any slowing up of the movement of commerce in the south today could be only temporary.

This road is everywhere encouraging the build-now idea. Through its publicity department it has given additional circulation to the recent editorial in The Journal urging every one who contemplates building to take advantage of the opportunities the present situation offers and build now. In commenting on the editorial the road says:

> The man who builds now will not only make money for himself but will help the general situation by putting money into circulation and providing work for men who are now idle.

The advantages of building now are obvious, the chief of these being the fact that many skilled workmen in the construction trades are now idle; that given employment they will provide a much greater return upon the money expended for their wages than would be the case with a similar amount of money expended for the labor of less efficient workmen when the building trades are overrun with work. Building material, too, is fairly cheap and the alleviation of the money situation has already become apparent.

The man who builds now will be performing a patriotic service. He will not be providing charity. No one connected with the building trades wants that, but he will be providing work for craftsmen who can give the greatest possible return for the money received for their labor and skill.

Build now. Put it off six months or a year and you will doubtless find yourself in the midst of the greatest building revival Atlanta or the whole nation, for that matter has ever seen. All business will have arisen like a young giant with strength renewed. The great influx of peoples from other countries due to the desolation left by the war will add definitely to the population not only of our farms but of our cities. The building trade will experience a tremendous activity necessary to meet that condition.

Build now at the low prices prevailing. Avoid the coming era of rush and rising costs. Build now.

The war has reached the point where every battle is a no-decision affair.

The naval affair at Smyrna was not, however, anywhere near the Chattahoochee.

The pessimist is overwhelmed by the most oppressive of all human feelings—loneliness.

Game Conservation And Its Results

The opening of the hunting season Friday cheers the hearts of sportsmen, but their greatest cause of cheer is that there is really something in the fields and forests of Georgia to hunt. This state was at one time in the position where it could look ahead and see the extinction of its game birds and animals.

But just in time wise laws for conservation of its game were enacted and the machinery of enforcement provided, with the result that the wasteful slaughter stopped and game multiplied and replenished Georgia earth from which it was about to perish. Reports to the state game commissioner indicate that there is now a greater abundance of quail, deer and wild turkey than has been in the state for twenty-five years.

Hunting was man's first occupation. It was his only means of livelihood before he settled down to the task of becoming civilized. Nor does he fail to harken back to it no matter how civilized he becomes. It is now reserved to him as a pleasure which he can find time to enjoy only at infrequent intervals it is true, but which is none the less keen on that account.

In the early days of Georgia game was so plentiful as to be in the way, and this abundance continued until the press of population began to lessen the amount of wild lands. In the older day every man killed as much game as he pleased, when and where he pleased. There was no objection because there was enough to go round even under this plan with much left over besides. But with the increase of population came the pot hunter and the wholesale slaughter for market. Then the supply began to dwindle until it well-nigh reached the vanishing point.

Abundant game is a legacy left us by our pioneer forefathers out of the largess yielded by the new world, an inheritance not to be squandered but to be conserved zealously and only the use thereof enjoyed. That the state of Georgia has now become an efficient executor of this bequest is why the hunters find such great cause for rejoicing today.

Having kept out of Mexico so long President Wilson is in no great danger of jumping into Turkey.

Consider the French. They have been denied absinthe, and now the old topers over there will have to confine themselves to the mildness of straight brandy.

Lately we observed the similarity between Dixmude and a certain popular brand of smoking tobacco, but if Bixchoote doesn't suggest the hired help in a beanery then we are no authority on similarities.

Where the Business Race Is Not to the Swift.

Yankee aggressiveness must be tempered with the more polite customs of the Latin American before the United States can take the place of Europe as an exporter to South and Central America.

The foregoing were the words used by William S. Kies, a New York banker, in an address at the recent convention of the American Hardware Manufacturers' association at Atlantic City. The trade opportunities that the war has developed for the people of United States in Latin-American countries is being given wide discussion, but the lessons that are to be learned and the obstacles that are to be overcome before these opportunities will yield their fullest harvest has not received similar emphasis.

"Belief that the American business man may enter South America," continued Mr. Kies, "and take without effort rich spoils is entirely erroneous. Published articles to that effect are misleading and detrimental to the successful development of our trade in that country."

Any one with even a superficial knowledge of the leisurely ways of business in Latin-American countries cannot avoid knowing that the "ginger" type of salesmanship held in such high esteem in this country would fail miserably if attempted to be injected into the slower conduct of affairs characteristic of the tropics.

Perhaps even in our own country saw-edge aggressiveness is overrated. In our impatience for results we sometimes mistake mere motion for the energy that is capable of affording really lasting returns. This error was distinctly avoided by the Germans who before the war dominated Central and South American trade. German firms opened branch houses or established resident agencies in those countries. Their representatives went with the intention of staying. Anything like making a whirlwind canvass and coming home weighted down with orders never entered their heads. They knew too well the people with whom they were to deal. They painstakingly learned the language and customs of the people. They learned the social ceremonies that seem inseparable in the minds of Latin-Americans from the transaction of any business. They established friendly personal relatives with merchants and business men of all kinds. They learned who was worthy of trust and who was not. They were thus able to extend the long time credits on which business in those countries is done with foreign nations. And with their chacteristic German patience and thoroughness, they succeeded.

They did not attempt to import their way of doing things along with their goods, but they sold their goods according to the ways and needs of the country. Undoubtedly vast trade advantages do exist for us in Latin-America, but we would do well to learn a lesson from German experience before attempting to prove them.

If a woman starts in to be disagreeable she knows how to achieve enormous success.

Too many of us neglect our plain duty for something more attractive.

We would rather be held up by a stranger than thrown down by a friend.

And it sometimes happens that women who display good judgment at bargain sales get the worst of it when it comes to selecting husbands.

Editorial Echoes

The promotion of Frederick Funston to be one of the six major generals will receive popular approval and set at rest the complaint made by his more zealous civilian admirers that he is a victim of official injustice.

It is true that General Funston has remained a brigadier since 1901 while other men have been passed over him to the higher grade. It is true that Funston's record has been highly creditable and that he is an able, experienced, and daringly resoreceful officer. On the other hand, his comparative youth and rapid rise to the rank of brigadier general at 35 were considerations fairly taken into account when his case was compared with other officers, able, devoted, and experienced, whom fortune and popular favor had not rescued from the regular process of promotion.

Funston is only 49 now and his promotion insures, save for misfortune, a long and useful service in the highest grade, including, we trust, a full term as chief of staff, in which his energetic personality and his public influence should enable him to accomplish something substantial.—Chicago Tribune.

We, the people of the United States of America, in accordance with time-honored custom, once a year take inventory of the favors of fate, and observe a national Day of Thanksgiving. We hereby record our thankfulness:

That although we have not reached the millennium, we are on our way;

That while we have not attained unto Utopia, we are getting every day a clearer idea of what it is;

That every national crisis brings us nearer to fundamental justice;

That we live in America and not in Europe;

That we were born in the twentieth century and not in the tenth;

That we have within us the seed of a constant and healthy unrest, so that we are never satisfied with what is good, but always press on to what is better;

That no cruel and tyrannical despotism dominates us;

That we are free of the burden of kings, czars, emperors, nobles, and hereditary aristocrats;

That we are committed to the theory that every human being has equal rights before the law, and that we are steadily working toward the time when that theory shall be made of universal practice;

That we are less and less disposed to do things simply because they always have been done, and are more and more disposed to do things because they ought to be done;

That we have a public school system free to every child;

That the day of the great ruler has passed and that no one among us can remain in prominence and power except as he shows himself to be a faithful public servant;

That little by little the walls of unearned privilege are falling and the people are coming into their own;

That we have less of dominant ecclesiasticism and more real religion—that is, more men and women who want to be just, loyal, and kind—than ever before.

That this nation is consistently pursuing its policy of good will toward all other nations, binding itself to them under treaties of arbitration and promoting the federation of the world;

That we are the big brother of the world; we hate no nation, none hates us;

That our business thrives, our land is fruitful and our factories are at work;

That our workingmen are citizens, are improving their conditions, and are learning how to safeguard their rights;

That we have so many honest men and good women;

That prisons are losing their inhumanity;

That our press is free, and intelligence widespread;

That our people are optimists, and believe that day by day, year by year, the earth is rolling upward into the light of LIBERTY, EQUALITY, AND FRATERNITY!

TRAVELLETTE

BY NIKSAH

NO. 99.—RANGOON.

Away over in Burma, among the many mouths of the Irawaddy and on the road to Mandalay, there was a strange conspiracy hatched. It required a score of centuries for its working out, but when it was done it was worth all the time and trouble.

The conspirators were oddly assorted. One of them was the Buddha, a prince of India, who, renouncing the pleasures of power and wealth, went naked into the world to preach humility and poverty. Others of the conspirators were those religious followers of the Buddha who could not, like him, give up all their wealth to follow a religious ideal, but who compromised (in a way not peculiar to the Buddhist religion) by building golden shrines to his memory. The other conspirators were essentially different. One was the British government, another a Scotch landscape gardener and another an English chief of police.

From the time more than two thousand years ago when the Buddha went forth to preach, down until our own time, the conspiracy has been to make in Rangoon the most beautiful park in the world. Being British, it is naturally named Victoria park, but even that can't hurt it. One sits on a bench at its eastern end and looks through two miles of the combined beauty of blue water and green growing things up toward the setting sun, which gilds the golden glory of the great Shwe Dagon. This is the most magnificent of religious edifices, a round spire nearly as high as the Washington monument, completely covered over with sheets of pure gold. Such is the magnificent tomb of one of the finger bones of Buddha.

Walk through the well-kept park and at the western end as you mount the steps to reach the dagoba, it is the polite thing to buy flowers from the naked children who swarm the steps that you may make sacrifice at one of the thousand shrines surrounding the golden spire. The temple bells are as tinkly as Kipling said they were, and all about are the pretty Burmese girls with their "whacking white cheroots." Rangoon is the cleanest and the prettiest of all the many holy cities on earth.

Americanisms

The subject of Americanisms is one of never-ending interest. Yet it is never safe to classify any of this country's peculiar expressions as such, because some historian or philologist or antiquarian is sure to rise up and announce that a particular word or phrase in question had its origin in the mother country and is still in use there. We mentioned the other day the interesting fact that the somewhat primitive residents of the Tennessee mountains—our "contemporary ancestors" they have been called—use a speech that is Elizabethan in many of its expressions and forms. The word platform, as used in this country in connection with politics, is supposed to be an American invention, but it also was common in Elizabeth's time, and Macaulay was familiar with it, although it has dropped out of use in the England of today.

Some English purists have sneered at the American expression to "have a good time," yet Ben Jonson used it precisely as we do. "Loafer," "rowdy," "swap," "stampede," "slump" and "trail" are words over which there seems to hang a distinct American atmosphere, and they are generally credited with being of American origin, yet the London Times itself not long ago called attention to the fact that they were born in Europe. The Times also recalled the facts that to "guy" in the sense of to "make fun of" is not an invention of Mark Twain's, but an English usage born of the adventure of Mr. Fawkes; that to "fall" trees, the use of "poor" for "lean" and of "Dutchman" for "German," the use of "disremember" and "hand-gallop," "let slide" and "have a mind" are all English expressions, though so old as to be obsolete in the mother country today. Chaucer and Spenser as well as Shakespeare furnish many examples of what some purists are wont to regard as American slang.

America has been the birthplace of many words and expressions now firmly rooted in the English language, particularly those of a rough-and-ready nature, awkward but expressive, such as "hornswoggle," "sockdologer," "galoot," "poppycock," "absquatulate," "skedaddle" and "ramstunctious." Richard H. Thornton, in his "An American Glossary," gives a long list of such terms. Our taste in adopting them might be better questioned by our English cousins were it not for the fact that one and all of them have been transferred to the tight little isle, have been praised by competent critics for their flavor and relish and are in common use there today. A certain infusion of slang adds to the vitality of a language, just as the aristocracy of any country can be maintained only by a steady admixture of individuals of low birth. All in all, this country should be proud and not ashamed of its Americanisms.—Baltimore Sun.

A woman's idea of a flatterer is a man who tells her that there are not sufficient words in the English language to describe her many charms.

THOSE DEAR NEIGHBORS

BY E. K. WOOLEY.

(Copyright, 1914, by E. K. Wooley.)

"Well, I declare!" remarked the young business woman who lives across the street.

"Declare it," said the young matron.

"Why, you know, I had glass windows put in our porch for the winter to make a sun room for the plants—mother said she'd enjoy it so much. Now I hear that some of my neighbors object and call it useless extravagance. I wish we hadn't put up such a pretty house, anyway," she sighed. "Right from the start I've been criticized, though it's probably cost me no more than the ugly house cost. It's simply aroused the jealousy of petty people in the neighborhood. They seem to think I did it on purpose to decrease the values of the other houses around here."

"People are funny," admitted the young matron.

"You know when my friend the writer woman was stopping with us this summer. She was very fond of our upstairs porch and spent a good part of her time up there. Well, there are a couple of old maids who live in the upper part of the house next door, and they have a porch just like ours. Just as soon as they heard my guest was a newspaper writer they had a curtain put on their side of their porch, and every time my friend went out on our porch they hurriedly went and pulled down the curtain on their porch. I suppose they thought they were so interesting that she was continually spying on them. How she laughed when she discovered it!"

"Talk about curtains," remarked the father of four youngsters, "reminds me that this summer, shortly before my youngest child was born, my wife's favorite place was on a side porch. She is quite delicate and had to lie down a great deal, and to give her greater privacy I had a side curtain put up. Our next door neighbor knew exactly why the curtain was put up, but he and his wife and his whole tribe refuse to speak to us now!"

"What's the matter with some folks, anyhow?" mourned the young business woman. "Why should anybody care what kind of a house I have, as long as it's decent? Or whether anybody has porch curtains or not, when it's their own business?"

"Or why should our neighbors worry because we have a maid and they haven't, when there's a perfectly good reason for our having a maid?" quirled the father of four.

"I suppose I could be like some men and require my wife to do all the work in our household, besides attend to the children, etc., in spite of her delicate health. I suppose it would be perfectly legitimate for me to kill her off in that way and marry one of the old maids of the neighborhood. As it is, I'm fond of my wife and my home. I want her to have everything as pleasant and comfortable as possible. Even with a maid she has a great deal to do, for she cooks parts of the meals and does all the family sewing. She hardly ever goes out. Yet our neighbors manage to get in digs without number, trying to show that we are overworking and underpaying our maid, though she is very happy with us and recently refused a better paying position because she has grown to love our little ones and is very contented in our household."

"Do you know," remarked the young business woman, "that mother planted a line of hollyhocks at the back of our lot last spring, and because the man who owned the lot back of us thought they were half an inch on his ground, he poured gasoline on them and killed every hollyhock? They would have beautified his place as well as our own."

"Talk about the war," remarked the young matron. "It strikes me that they're only doing on a large scale over in Europe what a lot of little-minded people are trying to do right here in their home neighborhoods. Why can't we just be happy?"

Cheap Substitute

Some take delight in working,
But others joy go shirking;
Some find pleasure lurking
Where sighing lovers walk;
To me the grandest pleasure
That comes in fullest measure,
The joy that most I treasure,
Is to talk, talk, talk!

In talk mankind delighting
Would have no need of fighting;
His wrongs he would be righting,
His enemies 'twould balk;
In joyous conversation
He could preserve the nation,
Improving all creation
With his talk, talk, talk!

Let each lay down his sabre
And eke his tools of labor
Conversing with his neighbor
Of money, love and chalk;
With fruits of toil denied him,
Kind nature would provide him,
With food like beasts beside him,
For his talk, talk, talk!

Hang the Looks

It may be suspected that Adam was a homely husband. His descendants are universally not easy to look at. Adonis is an allen to his sex.

Indifference to esthetics has governed the male, and high and painstaking regard for beauty has governed the female. In sex philosophy the female arms herself to meet the criticisms of other females, and thereby, if successful, wins the admiration of the male. It is not a direct set at the man, but a direct set at women, indirectly arriving at the essential of interesting the men.

Women, who have set a high standard of esthetics for themselves, are utterly indifferent to esthetics when the other sex is involved in the question. They do not seek pulchritude, but character. This is highly utilitarian. Pulchritude does not pay the rent and the grocer's bill; it does not buy gowns and hats; it is vain and heedless rather than sedate and careful; it is apt to be irresponsible rather than dependable.

The whole object of woman being to establish sanctuary and security, character has been sought and not pulchritude. Consequently since Adam no man has cared whether he were flat chested, spindle legged, undersized, overweight, large belted, double chinned, bald, freckled, bow legged, spavined, or had spring halt.

A man, if he be a kindly looker and good provider, can establish himself in the affections of a woman and make his life everything it ought to be. Consequently there is no incentive toward an ideal of good appearance which the woman to the best of her ability maintains for herself. The consequence is a constant slumping down so far as the man is concerned. Feminine influence did not guide the Greeks, but for an abstract idea of beauty they made themselves as nearly physically perfect as they could.

Men now do nothing that feminine influence does not urge, and inasmuch as it urges nothing in the direction of pulchritude they go along comfortably developing in the waist and not the chest.

It might soon make over the whole physique of the masculine sex if women were as critical of men's appearance as men are of women's. The suggestion that they adopt such a critical attitude for the good of the human race will be quite inutile. They will remain contented with a good natured looker and good natured provider, and hang the looks.—Chicago Tribune.

"Shine 'em up, sir!" cried the young bootblack. "I'll polish 'em so's you kin see you face in 'em, sir."

"Thanks, my lad; but I'm quite satisfied to see my feet in them," replied Fogg, passing on.

TOBACCO

By Frederic J. Haskin

My Lady Nicotine sung by the poets as a good fairy, and set forth in the doctor books as a dangerous siren, has a larger part in the world's goings-on than the luring of her votaries from present pains into future or fancied ease. My Lady Nicotine has business affairs quite similar in proportions and import to those of such work-a-day sisters as the Necessity Girls, Food, Shelter and Raiment. And her business affairs have as anybody as much upset by the smoke of battle abroad as anybody else's.

* * *

To father, as he puffs his after-dinner cigar; to mamma who indulgently pokes a finger into through the smoke rings he so cunningly puffs forth from his pursed lips; to little Johnalbert who sincerely flatters by sucking a bit of cross-vine; even to baby Mittye Mae who condemns as silly and futile the whole tobacco trade except the coupons which mean open-and-shut for dolls or a miniature piano, a good cigar is a smoke and nothing more. They have not yet paused to think that My Lady Nicotine is now wrinkling her fair, treasury brow over war taxes, suspended credits, collapsed markets, war risks, bills of exchange and warehouse receipts regarded as reserve bank assets.

* * *

Yet those are but suggestive of the manifold intricacies which the war, now smoking over the half of Europe, in half a score of seas, and in the far, quaint corners of China, laid upon tobacco. For certain grades of American tobaccos, grown almost exclusively for export, the bottom of the market dropped out. A valuable crop, just reaching maturity, was in the twinkling of an eye made for the present into so much almost useless vegetable matter. Buyers representing great corporations and even great nations, who would in a few days have been bidding for the crop, vanished from tobacco land.

* * *

For a time, it seemed that only that part of our domestic tobacco would be sold which the people of the United States themselves would smoke, chew and inhale as snuff. Great Britain, Italy, Germany, France, Spain, Austria, Belgium and Japan seemed entirely eliminated from the tobacco trade in which Italy, France, Spain, Austria and Japan are known as "regie" purchasers, those governments exercising monopoly over tobacco and buying their supplies in the United States and elsewhere through specially commissioned agents.

* * *

This slump in the export trade depreciated almost to nothing such tobaccos as the Maryland, which is light, mild and of good burning quality, useful as admixtures, and the heavy, dark, fire-cured tobaccos which are most popular in the foreign trade. It is well here it may be noted that the tobacco habit is as strongly nationally as it is individually; nations like the kinds they are used to. The popularity of Maryland tobaccos in Holland and France dates from the settlement in Maryland under a palatinate government which made that colony, though English, free to ship its products to other countries than England, while other colonies were restrained under their charters to ship their products only to the mother country.

But all the tobaccos—the Burley, whose "drinking" or absorbent quality makes it admirably adaptable to treatment with artificial "sweetening" and other "sauces," the mild, fine, "bright" tobaccos of the Carolinas and Virginia, and the several tobaccos which grow in the Connecticut valley, Wisconsin, Ohio, the gulf states and in other sections of the United States—were affected by the war. As trade has tended to approach its norm in distribution the tobacco market has eased somewhat, but even now it is not strong or steady.

* * *

That means a great economic problem. You may agree with King James I as to the effects, as portrayed in his majesty's "Counterblaste to Tobacco," of "the stinking smoake being sucked up by the Nose and imprisoned in the colde and Moyste Brains." Or you may as highly regard the weed as that Jean Nicot who presented tobacco seeds to Catherine de Medici. But in either case you have to think very seriously of smoke when you reflect that in 1913 the people of the United States grew tobacco on 1,216,100 acres, which produced 963,734,000 pounds valued at $122,481,000.

* * *

When so large an asset, even if it is intended to be rendered into more or less of nothing by consumption and expectoration, is suddenly deprived, the whole nation cannot but feel the loss. In August, 1913, the exports of leaf stems and trimmings were 59,926,916 pounds, valued at $7,230,672; for August, 1914, they were 12,270,298 pounds, valued at $1,722,124. For September, 1913, these exports were 49,206,358 pounds, valued at $5,667,307; while in September, 1914, they were 26,122,266 pounds, valued at $3,690,248. There is a tremendous decline in exports from one year to another, though the month of September, when trade has resumed some of its normal functions, showed an improvement over August.

* * *

The statistics of manufactured tobaccos show a similar trend, though not exactly the same conclusions. For cigarettes, cigars and cheroots the figures are: Exports August, 1913, 186,912,000, valued at $3,047,651; August, 1914, 120,228,000, valued at $217,289; September, 1913, 211,673,000, valued at $421,415; September, 1914, 262,966,000, valued at $518,526. For plug and smoking tobacco: August, 1913, 587,203 pounds, valued at $146,313; August, 1914, 414,290 pounds, valued at $145,651; September, 1913, 558,123 pounds, valued at $174,662; September, 1914, 809,691 pounds, valued at $290,108. In the manufactured tobaccos the exports would seem to indicate that in September, 1914, abnormally large quantities were sent abroad for the comfort and cheer of the "men at the front." And these manufactured exports brought higher prices, too.

* * *

The effects if the war on imports of tobacco are even more marked. For August, 1913, imports of leaf tobacco were 3,372,149 pounds, valued at $2,047,651; August, 1914, 3,351,254 pounds, valued at $2,540,367; for September, 1913, 4,169,247 pounds, valued at $2,914,349; September, 1914, 3,793,917 pounds, valued at $1,769,951. Imports of cigars, cheroots and cigarettes in August, 1913, were 122,630,000, valued at $300,533; in August, 1914, 104,674,000, valued at $301,589; September, 1913, 147,731,000, valued at $326,497; September, 1914, 98,899,000, valued at $307,991.

* * *

If present general conditions do not become much worse as regards transportation, it may reasonably be expected that most of our imports of tobaccos will not be further disturbed. The imports are principally cigars and cigar filler tobaccos from Cuba and cigar wrapper tobaccos from the Dutch East Indies, which are marketed at Amsterdam and Rotterdam in Holland. Turkish cigarettes and Turkish tobaccos imported for manufacture of cigarettes in this country are already cut off.

* * *

In the manufacture of cigarette papers, the finest of which are imported from France, the factory operatives are chiefly women, who are not "called to the colors," and therefore, it is reported, there need be no shortage of supply so long as the French or their allies have a free use of the seas.

* * *

To the ultimate consumer of tobacco in the United States, it is very probable that the effects of the war will be perceptible indirectly rather than directly. Hard times, whether they result from a war or a panic, tend to make men economize in uses of tobacco, some accomplishing the economy by fewer indulgences in the weed; others by using cheaper grades. It is not probable that the war tax recently imposed, or that even any scarcity of supply, will enhance prices by retail.

* * *

The closing the New York Stock Echange took away almost completely from the tobacconists of one part of New York 30,000 of the best "spenders" in the world. Similar conditions, though of less extent, have been caused in other cities. Tampa and other cigar manufacturing centers report orders for "holiday goods" as being late. But the trade generally, and even the growers, who have been hardest hit, are maintaining a firm cheerfulness.

COSBY SAYS HE KNOWS NOTHING OF SLAYING

Is Held by Police Following Death of John Bray at Owls' Club Entrance

A. F. Cosby, locked up at police headquarters on the charge of killing John Bray, a telegraph operator, in front of the Thrower building at 10 o'clock Thursday night, following a quarrel over a card game in the Owls' club on the top floor, refused Friday morning to admit the slaying, declaring that from the time he walked out of the club rooms until he found himself in the patrol wagon on the way to police station he remembers nothing of the affair.

His reticence is a surprise to the police, who expected that he would make a full confession of the shooting. Thursday night his intoxicated condition would not allow him to talk, but they had believed that a night's sleep would enable him to give a clear account of the tragedy.

Seen by officers in his cell, however, he rambled widely in his story, repeating incidents of his life at Forrest Park, where he was brought up, declaring that, only twenty-one years old, he is "the baby of the family," that his brothers and sisters called him "Jakey" and that he was never in such trouble before.

The accounts of witnesses both to the card game and the shooting corroborate each other in nearly every particular. Frank Woodliff, a solicitor, of 86 Chesterfield avenue, L. Burks, a former street car man, F. A. Bowen, of Lakewood Heights, E. T. Dozier, of 119 South Pryor street, and F. I. Mullen, of 374 Piedmont avenue, all will be summoned to Cosby's hearing, the date for which has not yet been set.

According to Woodliff's account he and Burks went to the Owls' club early in the evening, where they were joined by Bray and Cosby and began a card game in the back room of the club. A dispute arose over the cards, and Bray left the club, returning later when he was barred by the manager because he said to have been carrying a pistol. That, said Bowen, was the last time he saw him.

Cosby himself says he went to the club at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and remained there until 10, drinking at intervals throughout the five hours.

About 8 o'clock he met Bray, Burks and Woodliff, and the card game began. He says there was another man in the game, a Mr. Carl, a lawyer in the Temple Court building.

At 10 o'clock, he says, Bray had lost steadily and began to grow nasty. He said to have told Cosby to "go to hell" and then to have reached over and struck him in the eye with his fist. Cosby showed a swollen right eye to prove this statement.

Cosby says he then left the game. He declares that is the last thing he remembers.

The elevator boy in the Thrower building says he carried Cosby to the bottom floor and then went back for Bray. He says the two men shook hands as if they were apologizing as they walked out of the building.

Two men say they saw the shooting. Bowen, who was only a few feet away, and Mullen, who was coming out of the Southern Bell building across the street, where he is employed.

Both say they saw the pair struggling in front of the Thrower building. Suddenly three shots rang out in quick succession and one man fell to the ground. The other turned and stumbled into the alley.

It was just at this time that a telephone call was sent to police headquarters that murder was being done at the Owls' club. Policemen Haslett, Gantt and Bishop jumped into the patrol that answered the call.

FIND PISTOL IN ALLEY.

When they reached the Thrower building, the dark form of Bray was lying in the entrance. No one else was in sight. Then Cosby suddenly staggered out of an alley on the west of the building. Later, in the alley was found a 38-calibre revolver which had been discharged three times. There were three bullet wounds in Bray's body, one in the throat, one just below the heart and one in the abdomen. The flesh around them is badly burned, showing that the shots were fired at very close range.

Friday Cosby denied all knowledge of the shooting, saying that he had no gun nor saw a gun at any time during the evening, that his only weapon was a little pocketknife and that he does not remember drawing that. He was plainly drunk Thursday night, and was much the worse for it Friday morning, talking incoherently.

The dead man was a telegraph operator at Rosalind station on the Southern railway. He lived at Salina, Ga., and was only twenty-two years old. His body was removed to Harry G. Poole's chapel awaiting the arrival of his father, J. H. Bray. He has two brothers, William H. and Thomas Bray.

Cosby lives at 53 East Nelson street. He is twenty-one years old, and until a month ago was employed at the store of Hutcheson & Hutcheson, on the McDonough road, since then he has been driving a garden truck. His uncle, Dr. J. H. Hutton, of Forrest Park, said Friday that the young man had always had good habits and was never in any trouble before. He declared he would be back home to defend him. Cosby has two brothers, W. H. Cosby and S. T. Cosby, and a sister, Lula, who works in an Atlanta department store.

GERMANY CENTERS FIGHT ON RUSSIA; QUIET IN THE WEST

be able to join forces with their troops which, further to the east, have thrust a sharp wedge into the line. Such a junction of forces would result in the surrounding of the strong fortress of Verdun, which the German crown prince attacked in vain during the earlier days of the war.

The reply of the allies to this challenge was an attack on the Germans in the neighborhood of Verdun. An official German statement today said that this attack had been repulsed.

In Belgium the diminution of activity has become still more pronounced. There was almost a total absence of infantry attacks in the northwest and even the artillery fire, which recently has been unusually severe, has lessened.

The outcome of yesterday's naval battle in the Black sea is still in doubt.

"We Can Beat Russians," Says Von Hindenburg

BERLIN, Nov. 20.—(Via The Hague and London.)—"The Russians have numbers on their side, but numbers alone are not the decisive factor. In the present stage of the war less than ever before are we afraid of Russian numerical superiority. At Tannenburg the Russians outnumbered us three to one, yet the result was a notable German victory."

These are the views of General Von Hindenburg, now facing the great Russian war machine, as expressed in conversation with the Berlin correspondent of the Neue Freie Presse of Vienna.

"The Russians," said General Von Hindenburg, "are good soldiers and observe discipline, but discipline of another sort than that of the Austro-German, which is based on thinking and the execution of command, while the Russian discipline is a mere blind, dull obedience.

"The Russians have learned much since the Japanese war, particularly in the science of entrenching, but when the ground is frozen they will no longer be able to dig themselves in. Then they will have a bad time of it. That is one of the advantages the winter campaign will bring us.

"It is a sad but good thing that war and sentimentality do not go together. The merciless conduct of war is in the end the most merciful, because war is soonest ended thereby.

"The war with Russia is now chiefly a question of whose nerves will snap first. If Austria and Germany have stronger nerves—and they have them—then they will be victorious."

Germans Claim Gains In Both War Fields

BERLIN, Nov. 20.—(By Wireless to London.)—The German troops have repulsed a French attacks in the neighborhood of Verdun, in France, and the Russian retreat in northwestern Poland continues, according to an official communication issued today by the German general army headquarters.

The text of the official statement reads:

"In west Flanders and in north France no appreciable change in the situation has taken place.

"Heavy rains and snows which first soaked and then partly froze the ground have made our movements very difficult. A French attack at Combres, to the southeast of Verdun, was repulsed.

"The situation on the east Prussian frontier remains unchanged. East of the plain of the Mazurian lakes the Russians captured an unoccupied fort in which were some old obsolete cannon. The retreat of the enemy through Lipno and Neawaml continues. Our attack has made progress to the south of Plock.

"No decision yet has been reached in the fighting around Lodz and to the east of Czenstochowa."

Weather Bad, Reports French War Office

PARIS, Nov. 20.—The official communication of the French war office says:

"November 19 was marked by the almost total absence of infantry attacks on the part of the enemy; at the same time their artillery fire was much less violent than on the afternoon of November 18.

"To the north the weather has been very bad, and snow has fallen. All the region of the Yser canal, to the east of Dixmude, is invaded by the waters.

"On the center there have been no important actions to report. In the Argonne three vigorous attacks on the part of the enemy's infantry have been repulsed.

"On our right wing the Germans have reoccupied the destroyed section of Chauvencourt. Further to the east we have made some progress."

DR. PIERCE MAKES REPLY TO CRITICS

School Board Member From Fifth Ward Answers Demand for Resignation

Dr. J. M. Pierce, member of the board of education from the Fifth ward, whose resignation was demanded by the Fifth Ward Improvement club at a meting of the club Thursday night, gave out a statement Friday morning in reply to the criticisms directed against him. He said:

"Last Year the English Avenue school was overcrowded and a house near the school was rented for the overflow. The Ashby Street school, which is in easy walking distance of English Avenue for the older children, was less than one-third filled. A similar condition obtained in other sections of the city.

"The board of education determined to utilize every one of the school buildings in the city to their full capacity by transferring older children from overcrowded schools to underfilled schools.

"The English Avenue patrons objected to any of their children being transferred to Ashby Street because, as they said, 'there was a social line between the two schools.' Social lines are one of the abominations of the public school system which the board of education is determined to abolish. Furthermore, it would have been inexcusable for the board to continue to rent a building for the English Avenue overflow, when Ashby Street school, a new building built at a cost of $50,000, less than a mile distant, offered more than sufficient room for the overflow.

"The Fifth Ward Improvement club is dissatisfied because I would not undertake to block these transfers. Other communities in various parts of the city made identically the same protest for identically the same reason, but the board was determined to carry out its policy, knowing this policy to be the sensible and the fair and the business-like method of utilizing the school capacity we already had, and consequently the board declined to be controlled by such protests. In every instance, however, the board explained to the patrons the reasons why the transfers were necessary and advisable, and in practically every instance except English avenue, the patrons were convinced the board was right and withdrew their protests.

"Nothing would satisfy the English avenue people but to keep all of their children in the English avenue school, and to rent outside buildings for the overflow, no matter how big the overflow and no matter how great the cost. This the board cannot do. In the first place, it hasn't the money to rent outside buildings; and in the second place it would be reprehensible for the board to spend the money for that purpose, if the money were available.

"They charge me with failing to attend the board of education meetings. I have been a member of the board more than a year and have missed only one meeting, and then for providential cause. They say I haven't the interest of the Fifth ward at heart. That is not true. I have lived in the ward twenty-three years and there is no citizen of the ward who has more interest in it. They complain because I have not attended the meetings of their improvement club. I went once, was almost insulted by one of the club leaders, and haven't been back since.

"W. H. Johnson, councilman elect from the Fifth ward, who seems to be one of the club's chief counsellors, has a grudge against me because I would not support him for councilman. He is trying to force me to resign from the board of education, by bringing pressure to bear through the club, so he can elect one of his supporters in my place."

VETO OF TURNER'S SALARY INCREASE IS SUSTAINED

Woodward Supporters Block Move to Give City Electrician More Pay

The supporters of Mayor Woodward rallied Thursday and made amends for one of their three defeats in council last Monday, and sustained the mayor's veto, which had been overridden by council, to the ordinance increasing the salary of City Electrician Turner from $1,800 to $2,400 per annum.

"The aldermen couldn't stand the fire of the executive's wrath at this propitious time, which is on the eve of handing out the committee plums," declared Turner after the roll had been called and the vote was 5 to 4 against him.

"The lure of committee appointments was too much for a majority of the aldermen to withstand despite the fact that council had shown overwhelmingly that the fact that the office needs a higher salary is well recognized.

"I am beginning to think the only way to provide the office of city electrician with a salary in proportion to its importance to the city government, will be by invoking the use of the referendum, and letting the people themselves decide the issue."

The members of the board who voted against Turner and for the mayor were Aldermen Seawright, Kelly, McDonald, Armistead and Ragsdale, while Aldermen Candler, Thomson, Nutting and Owens voted for the increase.

After the vote had been taken Alderman Nutting remarked that when the paper first reached the aldermanic board before the mayor's veto, it had passed unanimously. Alderman Ragsdale explained he was absent from the former meeting, and others of the mayor's supporters started explanations, when Judge Candler, who was presiding, ruled them out of order.

Before the vote Alderman Candler exhibited a resolution recommending a salary raise last year for Turner, which he explained had been written by himself. Although he did not mention the name of the mayor, who charged him with preventing the raise for Turner last year, Judge Candler, said he simply wanted the board to know he had not lied last Monday when he said he had favored an increase in the salary of the city electrician one year ago.

ATLANTA CLUB'S WINTER GARDEN TO OPEN FRIDAY

Elaborate Dinner Dance at Night Will Mark the Occasion

The formal opening of the Atlanta club's winter garden, on the roof of the Forsyth building, will occur this Friday evening. It will be opened with an elaborate dinner dance.

This roof garden, which proved a source of much enjoyment last summer to the club members and their friends, has been enclosed in glass and steam heated and affords an ideal sun parlor on winter days and dance pavilion in the evenings. It has a large hardwood floor and the glass sides are so arranged they can be removed in the summer.

The remodeling of the roof garden has been done according to plans prepared by Architect A. Ten Eyck Brown, and it is said to be the best arranged of its kind in the south. It has been profusely decorated with palms and flowers. The club orchestra will furnish music for the dance which will be a feature of the winter season.

TRAVELING MAN LOSES HIS HAND UNDER TRAIN

George B. Everroad, a traveling salesman, living at 180 South Boulevard, lost a hand under the wheels of a W. & A. train Thursday night at Norwich, Georgia.

Everroad, according to his story to physicians at Grady, where he was taken on arrival of the train in Atlanta, was late for the train at Norwich and ran for it as it moved away. As he neared the train, his foot slipped on the cinders and he rolled under a car. The train was moving slowly. Everroad scrambled through to the other side and escaped with only the loss of his left hand.

FRUIT LAXATIVE IF CONSTIPATED, TAKE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS."

Best liver and bowel regulator for mamma, daddy and children.

If you're headachy, constipated, bilious or stomach is disordered and you want to enjoy the nicest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced, take a tablespoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" tonight and in the morning all the constipation poison, bile and clogged-up waste will gently move out of the system without griping and you will feel splendid.

Every member of the family should use this fruit laxative as occasion demands. It is just as effective for grandpa as it is for baby. It simply can not injure. Even cross, sick, feverish children just love its pleasant taste and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to effect a good "inside cleansing."

For thirty years "California Syrup of Figs" has been recommended by physicians as the ideal stomach, liver and bowel cleanser. Millions of families who are well informed use nothing else, but recently there has come a flood of spurious fig syrups, so we warn the public to ask plainly at drug stores for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," and see that it is prepared by "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no cheaper size. Hand back any "counterfeit" with contempt.—(Advt.)

Yellow and white chrysanthemums adorned the reception hall and parlors and in the dining room the pretty decorations were all in pale rose tints. Pink chrysanthemums and maidenhair fern formed the centerpiece of the table and were banked on the buffet and mantle.

Quantities of red and yellow chrysanthemums were used in the artistic decoration of the entire lower floor, and the punch bowls were embedded in autumn leaves and richly-hued fruit.

The prizes, an opera bag of brocade and a gold-cased note book, were awarded to the boy and girl who were the most successful in guessing the names of the children in masks. A confetti battle and dancink were enjoyable features of the afternoon.

The young hostess wore a becoming Martha Washington frock with pink silk skirt and panniers and bodice of flowered silk crepe.

To Have Pretty Hair

If your hair is not as soft, and pretty, or as fresh and full as that of some friend, do as she does—give it daily attention, just the same care you would give a plant to make it healthy and beautiful. Luxuriant hair—soft, fluffy, thick and lustrous—is really a matter of care. If it is too thin, make it grow. If it is too dry and brittle, soften it up—lubricate it. If you have dandruff it is because the scalp is too dry and flakes off. Freshen up the scalp and the dandruff disappears.

Parisian Sage, an inexpensive tonic, which you can get from any drug or toilet counter, or from Jacobs' 10 Stores, is just what you need—it softens the scalp, nourishes the hair roots, immediately removes dandruff, and makes the hair fluffy, lustrous and abundant. One application will stop itching head and cleanse the hair of dust and excess oil. Parisian Sage takes away the dryness and brittleness, makes the hair twice as abundant and beautifies it until it is soft and lustrous.

By the use of this helpful tonic any woman can easily make her hair soft, fluffy and abundant. Pretty hair will surely increase her charm and beauty. (Advt.)

STONE'S WRAPPED CAKES

Our white-tile ovens must be heated to an exact degree. The dough stays in the ovens just exactly so many seconds. This precision and the pure butter and fresh country eggs, each of which are added at a specific temperature, result in a perfect cake. The perfectly clean bakery and methods of manufacture add the finishing indescribable something that gives individuality to Stone's wrapped cakes.

BOARDS AUTHORIZED TO NAME SUPERINTENDENTS

Attorney General Warren Grice, in an opinion rendered Friday to State Superintendent of Schools Brittain, held that the county superintendents of education for the newly-created counties of Candler and Barrow should be elected by the county boards of education.

The acts creating these counties failed to state how the county superintendents should be chosen and in the absence of such an expressed provision the attorney general is of the opinion that these officers must be elected by the county boards.

The acts creating the new counties of Bacon and Evans expressly stipulated that their county school superintendents should be elected by the people.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

By Thornton W. Burgess

Con-clu-sions sounds like a very big and important word, but, really, it is quite simple. To jump at con-clu-sions is to make up your mind that a thing is so or isn't so without really knowing. It was just this way with Sammy Jay when he found that Old Man Coyote had left the Green Forest and the Green Meadows. Then he jumped to the con-clu-sion that he had. Just because he didn't find him in the places where he was used to seeing him he made up his mind that Old Man Coyote had gone away.

Like a great many others who jump at con-clu-sions, Sammy Jay didn't wait to make sure that he was right, but at once hastened to spread the news. He knew that it would be good news, the very best of news, to a great many of the little people of the Green Meadows, especially those who had to be always watching out for Old Man Coyote lest he gobble them up. So he spread his blue wings and hurried over to the dear Old Briar Patch to tell Peter Rabbit. He quite forgot that he and Peter were forever quarreling.

"Oh, Peter, I've great news!" he screamed as soon as he was near enough for Peter to hear.

Peter sat up, so full of curiosity that he, too, forgot that he and Sammy were not the best of friends. "What is it?" he asked eagerly.

"Old Man Coyote has left the Green Meadows and the Green Forest. He's gone away," replied Sammy Jay.

"Hurrah!" shouted Peter, kicking his long heels together. "Are you sure of it, Sammy Jay?"

But Sammy was already on his way to tell Danny Meadow Mouse and couldn't stop to answer. Danny was just as much pleased as Peter, and he and Nanny Meadow Mouse had a little celebration all to themselves. You see, it meant just one less worry for them. Sammy hurried up to the Old Orchard to tell Johnny Chuck, who didn't seem to care, and then flew over to the Smiling Pool. Jerry Muskrat saw him coming and he knew by the way Sammy was hurrying that he was very much excited.

"Sammy Jay has got something on his mind," said Jerry to Grandfather Frog. "I wonder what has happened now."

When Sammy reached the big hickory tree on the bank of the Smiling Pool he was quite out of breath. As soon as he could get enough to speak he gasped: "Old Man Coyote has left the Green Meadows and the Green Forest!"

"What's that?" demanded Jerry Muskrat.

Sammy repeated what he had said.

"How do you know?" asked Jerry Muskrat.

"Because his house is deserted and I have looked everywhere for him and not found him," replied Sammy.

"Huh!" grunted Grandfather Frog.

Sammy glared down at Grandfather Frog. "Did you speak?" he asked.

"I said huh!" replied Grandfather Frog. "Just because you haven't been able to find him is no proof that Old Man Coyote has really left."

"So you don't believe it," snapped Sammy.

"No," replied Grandfather Frog bluntly, "I don't believe it."

At once Sammy Jay lost his temper. You know, he loses it very easily. He said that he knew it was so. He called Grandfather Frog a stupid old know-nothing, and finally flew off to the Green Forest, screaming angrily.

Just after jolly, round, red Mr. Sun sank behind the Purple Hills that night a sound was heard that made many little people on the Green Meadows and in the Green Forest shiver. Peter Rabbit heard it and his heart sank. Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse heard it and drew close to each other. Grandfather Frog heard it and smiled. Sammy Jay heard and felt, oh, so cheap. It was the voice of Old Man Coyote.

23,000 TELEPHONE BOOKS DISTRIBUTED IN ONE DAY

Record Is Established by Employes of Bell Telephone Company

Officials of the Southern Bell Telephone company are pleased over the feat accomplished by the local manager's office in distributing 23,000 new telephone directories in one day.

The entire Atlanta subscription list was furnished with a November directory in twelve hours, the city being covered very systematically. The delivery of this directory was supervised by Local Manager T. R. Gentry with a field force of ten ward representatives and 146 boys.

This new directory carries about 5,000 changes, of which approximately 1,600 are new telephones which have been installed during the last four months.

Manager T. R. Gentry says the company's local business has suffered little during the last three months and looks for rapid increase in the toll business now that the cotton crop has begun to move.

MORE EXPENSIVE LIGHTS USED ON STREET CARS

As rapidly as the substitutions can be made, the carbon lamps in the local trolley cars are being replaced by new and more brilliant Tungsten lamps, the latter having been perfected to the point where they can withstand the vibration of that use. The change has been made in practically all the main line double track cars and in a number of the smaller cars. The Georgia Railway and Power company is one of the first street car companies in the United States to adapt the more expensive lamps to this purpose.

Wahoo to Handle Game Saturday

Bob Williams Will Umpire, Georgia Team Will Enter Game in Good Shape

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 20.—Hard work and lots of it, has been the order of the week for the Georgia eleven in making ready for the Auburn game on Grant field Saturday. The team came through the Tech contest without sustaining any new injuries of consequence, and when the whistle blows to begin the annual battle with Auburn, the boys should be in the best physical shape shown this season.

However, those who had hoped that Harry Logan would have recovered sufficiently from the injury to his hand to get into the game will be disappointed. The blond end is still out of shape, and will not be used in Saturday's game, according to the latest advice from Coach Cunningham. Broyles, who has been up had shape for some time, will also be out of the line up. Consequently there will be no change from the battle front which faced Tech on Saturday last.

Unless something unforeseen happens at the eleventh hour to call for a change, the team will enter Saturday's game with the following line up: Thompson, left end; Garrard, left tackle; Conyers, left guard; Henderson, center; Garmany, right guard; McConnell, right tackle; Hitchcock, right end; Paddock, quarter; Peacock, left half; Powell, right half, and Thrash, fullback.

Complete arrangements for officials have not yet been announced, but Wahoo has been chosen as referee, and Bob Williams, Clemson coach, will umpire. No selection of a lineman has been made.

Ten Teams Now Leading Field

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The ten leading teams in the six-day bicycle race sprinted twice during the early morning and lapped two of their number, Ryan and Wohlrab and Walthour and Halstead. Shortly afterward Ryan and Wohlrab retired from the race. Walthour and Halstead rode fast at the leaders' heels alternately in an effort to make up the lost lap. The fast pace had cut down the number of teams from eighteen to twelve.

At 8 o'clock this morning 2,051 miles and five laps, three miles and nine laps more than the record, had been registered by the eight leading teams. These were Clark and Root, Lawson and Drobach, Cameron and Kaiser, Lawrence and Magin, Moran and McNamara, Goullet and Gredia, Fogler and Hill and Egg and Verri. Walthour and Halstead were a lap behind; Thomas and Hanley had made 2,051 miles and two laps; Hill and Anderson had 2,051 miles to their credit and Piercey and Hansen had gone 2,050 miles and four laps.

The record for the 104th hour was 2,047 miles and six laps, made by Hill and Ryan last year.

Rome Preps Out With Challenge

ROME, Ga., Nov. 20.—Basing her claim on her record, Darlington lays claim to the football championship among the preparatory or high schools of Georgia. Her team has played only first-rate schools in Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama, and her record to date is 160 points scored to two by her opponents. Her goal line has not been crossed, and the only two points made against her counted on a safety which a majority of the football experts of Chattanooga said ought not to have been so counted, and were made in a game in which Darlington gained three yards to every two by her opponents. The scores made by Darlington are larger than those made by any other school in the state, within our knowledge, in playing schools of first rate caliber. The record is as follows:

Darlington, 6; Attalla, 0.
Darlington, 17; Rome High, 0.
Darlington, 0; Chattanooga High, 2.
Darlington, 33; Donald Fraser, 0.
Darlington, 60; Cartersville, 0.
Darlington, 18; Georgia Military academy, 0.

In view of the above showing, Darlington tells that her team is the best in the state and will be glad to play either the winner of the Riverside-Gordon contest or the winner of the Tech High-Richmond game, the date and place to be arranged by agreement. Efforts to play Riverside, Gordon and Tech High were made early in the season, but dates conflicted and hence the proposal for a post-season game.

Chicago Federals Increase Stock

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—The capital stock of the Chicago club of the Federal baseball league was increased from $250,000 to $100,000 at the annual meeting here Thursday. Most of this sum already has been spent by Charles Weeghman, president, it was announced, and the increase was to provide his surety. The directors adjourned until next week when officers probably will be elected.

The Sportlight

BY GRANTLAND RICE

THE SCRAP INCARNATE.

Abel and Cain, as I gather the dope,
Were first to meet in a scrappy duel;
And Abel took to the soapy slope
Like a two-year-old kid who has trained on gruel;
That first battle the sporting pages
Have long since canned as a wornout beat:
But here's a clash for the endless ages
The day that Haughton and Hinkey meet.
You may remember that ancient story
Of how Kid David one musty day
Struck out Goliath and crabbed Gath's glory,
Winning another World Series fray.
This clash, I hear, held the crowd in wonder,
But greater now is the battle due,
Where spirals whirl and the echoes thunder
As Haughton tackles the King in Blue.

In regard to Frank Hinkey's strategy for next Saturday we are in position to furnish but one advance tip—that against Harvard those regulars will stick in there until the game is over or until some one is decapitated of disemboweled.

ENTERING THE HIP-HIP.

Mahan, Francke, Bradlee and Logan vs. LeGore, Knowles, Ainsworth and Wilson. In this brief outline you have the essence of what Saturday holds in store when the Blue becomes entangled with the Crimson. Here are two of the best backfields that ever assaulted a line or circled an end, and when they meet head-on there should be enough thrills to carry on through spring.

No two greater backfields ever met, for both are experienced, powerful, heavy and fleet; and both are furnished with scoring plays and ground-gaining marches. It will be a duel of heavy artillery and rapid-firing guns, and in the exchange of thrust and smash the 70,000 non-combatants should see about all the football there is. For now that the east has come to the open game, football has an appeal that is something beyond a social habit.

And you might add, or you mightn't, just as you feel about it, that Cornell's football stock has taken a Sharpe rise in the last few weeks. In the way of melody, "The Big Red Team" has come back into popular favor.

ANOTHER OVERTHROW.

There is a strip of indigo to western football this season in an interesting sectional way. Last year, out of five starts, Michigan beat Penn, Cornell and Syracuse, while Notre Dame headed off Army and Penn. State, leaving a percentage of 1,000 or thereabouts.

This season Harvard, Cornell and Syracuse have beaten Michigan, while Yale and West Point have beaten Notre Dame. Out of six starts the west has achieved one victory and five defeats—and a victory over Penn. is nothing to entice the rollicking cheer from one's throat.

So the east evened up from what the west had to shoot back in 1913, the shift being due to an increased power in the east and a heavy loss of veterans by the two western corps engaged. Next season Michigan and Notre Dame will have more experience, and the intersectional affair should be more evenly waged. Yost, at least, will have a far better team, and one capable of producing much more stuff.

MICHIGAN VS. ILLINOIS.

The best eleven in the west this season is Illinois. Colonel George Barr McCutcheon, who has seen both Michigan and Chicago play in big games, reports them to be about evenly matched. And Colonel McCutcheon is a keen observer of football play.

As Illinois crushed both Minnesota and Chicago, this would put Zuppke's eleven out in front, just as the winner of the Yale-Harvard battle will carry prestige in the east.

A meeting between Illinois and the Harvard-Yale victor wouldn't draw any crowd at all. Hardly a soul above double the capacity of any arena that might be picked.

THE SPOOFERS.

Said Fielding Yost to Old Al Sharpe,
"I thought I'd hook you like a carp."
"I like fried Wolverine on toast,"
Said Old Al Sharpe to Fielding Yost.

Anyway, Shake Ames can go back to Chicago and tell the story of how Yale was dormie 19 and how Princeton dashed in and won the next 14 holes.

If some enterprising college cares for a diverting afternoon we have an idea that by hooking up with Dartmouth or Cornell at this stage the desired excitement can be obtained. And in sufficient quantity to last out the rest of the week.

Exeter went nine years without beating Andover and then the last two seasons ran up 136 points to Andover's 7. Revenge is one thing and murder is another.

Add lateral passes—England to Russia to France, with the score 0-0 and the ball still on Belgium's yard line.

The Germans are great at midfield, but so far they have failed to show the scoring punch when within a short distance of the goal. And they are very good at the Open Game, as we understand it.

Teams Finish Workout in Rain

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 20.—A northeaster bringing with it two inches of rain and snow made no difference with the plans of the Harvard and Yale football teams Thursday. The Crimson advance guard of twenty players, Head Coach Haughton and assistant coaches, had what was termed a "satisfactory tryout" in the new bowl.

Captain Brickley kicked goals with his usual accuracy, although the grid iron was covered with slush, and the water stood inches deep. After a short signal drill the players left for New Haven to join the rest of the Harvard squad.

While the Harvard players were getting accustomed to the fowl, Head Coach Hinkey sent the Yale players through a long secret signal drill on old Yale field. The players handled the water-soaked pigskin in the complicated lateral and forward passes without a fumble. Last night the players were sent through another signal drill in the baseball cage.

Football enthusiasts were apprehensive today because of weather conditions but the weather bureau said indications point to a fair, cold Saturday.

Harvard students sent $3,000 here to bet on their team at odds on ten to nine. Yale men covered the bets.

Cutler Beats Schaefer

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—Albert Cutler defeated Jake Schaefer 300 to 173, in a billiard players' league match last night. Average and high runs: Cutler 15; 81; Schaefer 8 13-20; 36.

Lord Will Have All Turtles on Hand But Two

When New Manager Takes Up Job of Building Team, He Will Find Only Allison and Mullen Missing—Even Latter May Return

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 20.—While no real doubt has existed hereabouts that ultimately Briscoe Lord would be free to accept the management of the Memphis Turtles, still the attitude of the Mobile club in its attempt to hold Lord has prevented anything definite being done toward plans for next year. Deals hardly were in order until Lord's status was finally cleared and so the signing of new men for 1915 cannot be announced, though it is understood several are in prospect.

This much is quite certain. Lord will have available all of the 1914 players except Pete Allison and Jimmy Mullen. Allison was recalled by the Chicago Cubs and Mullen will not return next season, unless he changes his opinion about the climate of the south not agreeing with him. While Jimmy is about as good a second baseman as this league had, the numerous tilts he had with the home crowd disconcerted him greatly, and the result was inevitable. Manager Lord, however, may bring about a change of feeling, causing Jimmy to reconsider his request to be placed elsewhere.

There may be other aspirants for the first base position, but it's doubtful whether any one will supplant Danckel. Lord could go far in seeking a better man and eventually fare worse. Coyle, the speedy right fielder, is sure of his position. His playing continually improved and toward the latter part of the season it was a revelation to the fans, who have been used to something inferior.

In a letter to a friend George Merritt, the greatest utility player the south has ever seen, has this to say: "I was glad when the season closed. It was the most unsatisfactory season I ever put in. I would hate to go through another like it. To be jumped in and out from one position to another is very trying, indeed, and very discouraging. It takes the heart out of a player and causes a feeling of uncertainty about his standing. I never shirked any duty to which I was assigned, but I consider my one strong point my ability to pitch, and it's my sincere wish that during the season of 1915 the management will see to it that I'll be given my regular turn in the box."

Our lefty third baseman, Red McDermott, is basing great hopes on next season being his best. Before joining the team last spring he had been operated on twice during the winter and he played the 1914 season with twenty-eight stitches in his side despite the physician's protest.

Catcher Schie, though weak with the stick, is a cuckoo behind the plate, and the way he nipped base runners indicates that his good right arm will answer all purposes for a number of seasons to come.

Boat Races for Big Exposition

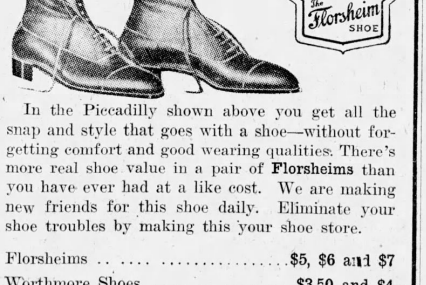

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 20.—Officials of the Panama-Pacific International exposition have received from the local section of the American Power Boat association the program of the motorboat regatta to be held here next year.

In addition to a long distance race from New York to San Francisco, which already has attracted four entries, the plans indicate two weeks of racing to take in every type of gas propelled boat, including cruisers, express and heavy duty, displacement and hydroplane speed boats, fishing and open boats.

While all events will be under the auspices of the American Power Boat association, entries from all other motorboat organizations will be accepted.

City Basketball League Organizes

Reorganization of the City Basketball league which has operated for the past three years was effected at a meeting held Thursday night. Three teams, Emory college, North Avenue Presbyterian church, and the Grant Park Athletic club have signified a desire to enter the race, and others are expected to come in later. Information will be given by Sam Swilling, 33 Moore building, or Harry Villard, at Parks-Chambers-Hardwick. A silver loving cup offered by the above firm will be awarded the winner in the league race.

Trailing the News

BY INNIS BROWN

From present indications, Saturday is going to be the first football date of the current season locally to be attended by regular football weather. That is football weather from the standpoint of the teams. It looks now as though it will be cold and comparatively dry, which is the ideal combination for knights of the pigskin. This is hardly a pleasing prospect for the spectator, who must adopt numerous ways of keeping comfortable. But it ought to insure that both teams will put up a fast snappy article of football.

In this connection it may be observed that further rain will tend to help Auburn rather more than Georgia. This is true because of the different systems of play that the two teams are expected to use. Auburn will without doubt find frequent use for her hard line plunging tactics, while Georgia will rely more strongly on off-tackle plays, end runs and forward passes. In all probability there will not be enough difference in weight between the two teams to amount to much either way. But the difference in the two styles of attack will doubtless be so marked as to render it practically sure that slippery grounds and a wet, soggy ball will work especially against Georgia.

The Harvard-Yale game will, of course, be the big thing in football Saturday in the east, as it always is when these two teams meet. However there is another battle to be fought which will draw more than passing comment, when Syracuse meets Dartsmouth.

For your information, or misguidance whichever the results of the game go to show, it may be noted that Syracuse beat Michigan 20 to 6; Michigan trimmed Penn 24 to 3; Dartmouth smothered Penn 41 to 0. Now what do you say the Dartmouth-Syracuse score will be? Having doped it to your entire satisfaction, receive the additional information that Princeton beat Syracuse 12 to 7 and trimmed Dartmouth 16 to 12.

Maulbetsch, the Flying Dutchman of the Michigan football team, has achieved no little distinction during the current season through his exploits on the gridiron. Now comes news of another performance which shoves him in the football limelight. "Maulv" admits that every night after he finishes training on the field he tops off his day's work by eating a whole pie before retiring. This announcement, coming a bit earlier, should have boosted business for Ann Arbor bakers.

They are not exactly concerning football players at Tulane just now, but it is hardly less than that. A move has been started to ask the faculty to let off from class-room work each afternoon, men who want to try for the team. It is reported that Coach Sweetland is getting out hardly more than a dozen men for practice.

Longing for additional worlds to conquer, the Christian Brothers college team of St. Louis, has hit on a scheme on challenging both Washington and St. Louis universities for a game on the same afternoon, making up a double-header. Times must have changed in the Mound City. A few years since Eddie Cochems had a team at St. Louis university that could have trimmed a dozen C. B. C. elevens and still felt the need of a workout.

Thus far winter leaguers have disposed of about all of Connie Mack's baseball chattels except Shibe park, and the hunchback mascot of the team. Connie asked waivers on Bender Coombs and Plank, and the dopesters have done the rest. Already Eddie Collins has been sold to the Yankees, Oldring, Baker and Lapp have been traded and now Ira Thomas is being sent to New York as manager of the Yanks.

A few days since Fred Merkle took unto himself a better half. That ought to be the tip for some scribe to observe that Merkle has pulled another bonehead play.

A St. Louis head line announces that "The American League Wants Policeman Devery to Change His Beat." Looks like Bill must have been cutting the divvy both ways. Anyway Superior Officer Ban Johnson thinks he has.

The military authorities at Clemson arrested the football team when it returned home after defeating V. M. I. Wonder what would have happened to the bunch if they had lost the game. At that Clemsonians will resent the statement in a Birmingham paper that the victory was unexpected.

Tennessee forward passed over the prostrate forms of the Commodores and Tigers. Before we get excited over that, we should like to see what they would like after stomping the plunges of Red Harris, "Caruso" Bidez, and young Lindsey.

Gordon Institute and Riverside meet at Grant field Saturday morning. Go out and pick out a few of the stars that will be tearing up the scenery in college circles within the next two or three years. They'll be there all right.

Gordon Rooters Coming in Force

BARNESVILLE, Ga., Nov. 20.—A special train will leave Barnesville Saturday morning, carrying the Gordon institute football team, and a large delegation of rooters for the big prep battle between the local eleven and the Riverside cadets at Grant field at 10 o'clock. Enthusiasm here is running high, and Gordon supporters are hoping for the best.

The team will be unable to throw its full strength into the game owing to an accident to Beasley and Williams. This pair became cross up on a signal in practice and collided, injuring both so that they are not expected to get into the game. Otherwise, the team is in fine condition, and expects to put up the game of the season.

Palmettos Defeat Newberry Eleven

NEWBERRY, S. C., Nov. 20.—The University of South Carolina smothered Newberry college here Thursday, winning 46 to 7. The two teams had played to a tie three weeks ago in Columbia. Captain Hill, of South Carolina, starred with his beautiful tackling and fine runs.

Duffy and Welsh Battle to Draw

Few Critics Gave Duffy a Shade, but Both Men Were on Their Feet and Fighting Hard at Finish

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 20.—Freddie Welsh, world's champion lightweight, fought a ten-round bout with Jimmy Duffy, of Lockport, here last night, as the result of which opinion was divided between a draw and a shade for Duffy.

A few sporting editors called the bout a draw, but most of them gave it to Duffy by a shade. Both men had trained thoroughly for the bout, Welsh weighing in at ringside at 135 and Duffy at 136 1-2. Although the fight was fast, neither man scored a knockdown and both finished in good condition.

The opening round was even, Welsh getting a good right to body and left to face, while Duffy used his left jab repeatedly. Welsh opened the second round with a hook to the eye and a right and left to the body, but Duffy came back with a straight left to the nose, right to body and repeated left jabs to the face, Duffy having a shade at the finish.

The third and fourth rounds were slow. The fifth round was even.

In the sixth Duffy staggered Welsh with a right cross and put a solid left to face. Welsh came back with a punch that opened up Duffy's ear.

In the eighth Welsh was at his best, the champion dancing to face and body repeatedly. He also had the better of fast infighting. The ninth and tenth were fast, both men apparently trying for a knockout, but neither found a spot that gave a decided advantage.

Tech High Plays Donald Fraser Today

This afternoon on Grant field, Tech High will meet Donald Fraser in the semi-final football battle of the local prep league. This will be the last time that Donald Fraser will play this year, while it is the semi-final engagement for Tech High.

Tech high is the favorite and should easily win the game, as they have experienced little difficulty in downing teams that took the measure of Donald Fraser, and unless the Decatur team springs a large surprise they should on the battle easily.

The game will be called at 3 o'clock and the usual admission price will be charged.

Two Residence Properties on West Tenth Street Change Hands—Ben J. Massell to Erect Another Three-Story Building on Peachtree Street, This One Near Currier, Purchase Money Notes and Loans Discussed by Experts

W. L. & John O. DuPree have sold for a client to Harrison Jones and W. M. Gordon 62-4 West Tenth street, residence properties, for a consideration not disclosed.

This property consists of two two-story houses on a lot 86x150.

NEW BUILDING PLANNED.

Ben J. Massell, who has built several business structures on Peachtree street, announced Friday that he would start work Saturday on another building.

This will be three stories, of brick construction, and it will cost $12,500. It will occupy a lot facing twenty feet on the east side of Peachtree street, just south of Currier street. This lot was recently bought by Mr. Massell.

The building which he recently completed on Peachtree street north of Pine has been sold.

NOTES AND LOAN STATUS.

W. J. Davis, whose work as a banker and real estate operator brings him in touch with all phases of real estate, has some interesting comment to make on the purchase money note situation and on the stability of real estate values.

Mr. Davis says that good purchase money notes are scarce—in fact, the supply is about exhausted. This is not only his own experience, but he says that other people who buy such notes report the same thing.

By good notes, Mr. Davis means those on property upon which a substantial amount has been paid.

He also makes an interesting comparison between real estate and stock and bond values. He says that there are no bargains in real estate. Property of good staple value has not bee nsacrificed.

He then mentioned some good stocks that were now selling at a reduction of a third, and he added that he knew of no real estate of a quality corresponding to that of the stocks, that was being offered at a reduction. If it were, he said, there would be plenty of people ready to buy it.

His experience is common. Agents complain that the trouble is not in finding buyers, but in finding owners who are willing to offer their property at a reduction.

S. B. Turman had some interesting comment on the status of loans. He said that he had two clients who had invested in loans on Atlanta real estate a total of $150,000, representing loans from $500 on up—mostly small loans.

Out of that batch, only two interest coupons were behind. Another client, he said, had several hundred thousands of dollars invested in real estate loans here, and it had only one small foreclosure in prospect.

These conditions certainly represent a good underlying condition, and they show that when the market does open in earnest it will have a splendid foundation upon which to go for several years to come.

COTTON MERCHANTS WIN POINT AGAINST RAILROAD

Carriers Must Cease Making Allowance for Compression, Commission Holds

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—A new principle was laid down by the interstate commerce commission today when it held, in the case of numerous cotton merchants against the Atlantic Coast Line, that the "compression of export cotton at the port of transshipment is not a service rendered by the owner of the property transported which is 'connected with such transport' by the rail carrier; and that the carrier must cease from making allowance for such compression."

Under the Coast Line's tariffs, cotton may be compressed and compression paid by the carrier at Athens, Atlanta, Macon, Covington and Augusta, Ga., and other points on the Georgia railroad; or the cotton may be moved uncompressed to the ports of Norfolk, Wilmington, Charleston and Savannah, there compressed, and payment for such compression made by the Coast Line. Allowances also are made for compression of cotton moving from points in North and South Carolina and Virginia to the ports named.

VALDOSTA OCTOGENARIAN CELEBRATES HIS BIRTHDAY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

VALDOSTA, Ga., Nov. 20.—In the midst of his children and grandchildren R. Y. Lane, one of Valdosta's best known bankers, Wednesday evening celebrated his eighty-seventh birthday with a dinner party. Mr. Lane is president of the Merchants bank, which he founded, and despite his age, takes an active interest in business affairs. With him on the occasion were Mrs. E. P. S. Denmark, Mr. Mills B. Lane and family, of Savannah; Mr. E. W. Lane, of Jacksonville; Mr. Ben Lane, of Douglas, and Mr. W. T. Lane, of this city, together with a number of grandchildren.

Mr. Lane has been a great factor in the development of this section of Georgia and several of his sons are well known bankers in other cities.

Weather Conditions

Forecast till 7 p. m. Saturday:

Atlanta and vicinity: Fair, warmer tonight and Saturday.

Georgia: Fair and continued cold tonight; Saturday fair, not quite so cold.

Alabama: Fair and continued cold, with freezing temperature to the coast; Saturday fair and not quite so cold.

The cold wave from the northwest advanced with extraordinary rapidity southward over the entire cotton belt, bringing record temperatures for November at Atlanta, Macon, Asheville, Augusta, Birmingham, Montgomery and Nashville. The 7 a. m. temperature at Atlanta was 14 degrees, at Asheville and Nashville 10 degrees, the coldest in the United States this morning. The cold wave has not yet reached central Florida, though Jacksonville reported 32 degrees, with killing frost. In the western part of the cotton belt the lowest was 30 degrees at Dallas and Palestine, Tex.

A moderate disturbance moved up the Atlantic coast during the night and is central over New England this morning; it was accompanied by snow flurries at Atlanta, and snow is still falling at Asheville and Raleigh, N. C.

Except some cloudiness along the northern part of the country generally fair weather prevails in the central valley and west. It is comparatively warm in the northwest, Havre reporting 40 degrees, and even Calgary is above freezing.

Fair, somewhat warmer weather is indicated for tonight and Saturday.

C. F. von HERRMANN,
Section Director.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices and Expert Opinions

COTTON GOSSIP

Times-Picayune summary: The cotton market is fast adjusting itself to the new conditions. Yesterday's rise in futures would have been considerably greater but for the country's willingness, if not anxiety, to sell spots on an even lower basis. In some quarters there is a tendency to ascribe the recent decline in spots to the machinations of the future rings, simply because spots seemed to follow futures at the start.

This sort of reasoning is known in logics as "post horcergo propter hoc," which means, in plain English, that what follows must be the effect of what precedes, the utter absurdity of such reasoning is patent in the instant case. The vast majority of brokers are around the rings have "stuck" with "long" cotton contracts which clients were unable, or unwilling, to margin after the prolonged closure. As the broker's only chance of working out the loss lies in a bull market, they are not likely to hammer values for fun, and they could not possibly profit by a decline. Middling dropped to six cents at Dallas when the rings were closed; the fear that the slaughter may be repeated keeps the rings conservative on the bull side and prevents the speculative public from buying "on the scale down."

Let it once be certain that the south is resolved to dole out the stuff at favorable moments and the professionals will help on the campaign by all practical means. But let it be seen that the south is resolved without much regard to price and the professionals will stand aside, in sheer self-defense till the Dutch auction is finished. No operator, or clique, can stand up against the actual stuff, more especially when a crop so huge as this has to be dealt with. In the mean while it is encouraging to know that exports expand week by week and that finance is rapidly returning to normal.

11 a. m bids in New York were as follows: December 7.07; March 7.52; May 7.72; July 7.92.

New Orleans, La.—Spots are steadier now with better demand. Very steady tone in futures; looks like good resistance whenever prices get closer to 7c.

We understand that details of the clearing house plan are being steadily developed but that the committee is not yet ready to ask subscriptions. It is hoped, however, that the final plans will be ready for submission to exchange members in about two weeks and that the clearing house for contracts will be ready for operation by January 1. A man with English connections says that Liverpool is not entering on any new business in this market at present. Orders from there he says, whichever side of the market they may be on are entirely in liquidation of old contracts. This business, of course, is almost if not wholly in December.—Pearsall.

Forecast: Fair and continued cold tonight. Saturday fair and warmer in northwest portions.

Alabama—Fair and continued cold tonight, rising temperature near the coast.

Louisiana—Tonight fair, continued cold; freezing in east portion; temperature will be 28 to 32 degrees in eastern portion of sugar and trucking region, frost in west potion; Saturday fair, warmer; light variable winds on the coast.

Arkansas—Tonight fair, warmer; Saturday fair, warmer in east portion.

Oklahoma—Tonight fair, warmer in east portion: Saturday fair.

East Texas—Tonight fair, warmer except in extreme northwest portion, frost in the interior; Saturday fair; light variable winds on the coast.

West Texas—Tonight fair, warmer in south portion: Saturday fair.

Virginia—Fair tonight and Saturday, colder tonight with a cold wave east portion; strong northwest winds on the coast.

Kentucky—Fair and not quite so cold tonight and Saturday.

New York: Opening quiet but steady. Liverpool cables indicated that there was a better demand which had a stimulating effect here. There was a disposition on the opening to sell December and buy the distant months, however, the transactions were small. McFadden was the best buyer of December and Hentz was a seller, also Schill. Wiggin was a fair buyer of May. Riordan and Schill bought March. Hentz and Martin sold. Montgomery bought October. Schill and Cone best sellers. After the call Riordan, Gifford, Brooks and Hentz leading buyers; Flinn, Cone and Hartcorn leading sellers. Sentiment is favorable to further upturn. Outside speculation very limited. Liverpool was said to be buying in this market. I would prefer the long side at the moment.—Anderson.

Market quiet, spot houses moderate buyers of December, Mohr bought May, Hentz sold about 2,000 March, Norden sold December, some Wall street selling of December, Herklotz bought March.

Map complete shows cloudy Carolinas, snowing many points, generally fair rest of belt. Freezing temperatures except in south Texas.

GRAIN GOSSIP

Bartlett, Frazier & Co. say:

Wheat—We look for a steady market today without important price changes.

Corn—The market looks lower.

Oats—Independent strength is shown with no pressure from the country and continued good shipping demand.

Provisions—Covering by shorts was the chief cause of yesterday's rally, the cash demand being rather limited with larger receipts looked for next week.

WHEAT IN CHICAGO WAS HEAVY IN THE AFTERNOON

Wheat Closed 3-8c Down, Corn and Pork Off—Lard and Sides Firm—Oats Dull

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—Wheat sagged today as a result of a lull in buying for export account. Diminishing of receipts northwest gave the market a little strength at the outset, but the effect failed to last. Reports from Argentina as to the crop outlook were too conflicting to have much influence. After opening ⅛c off to ⅛@¼c up, the market suffered a moderate general setback.

Reported difficulty in obtaining ocean tonnage appeared to be acting as a handicap on wheat prices. The close was weak at ⅜ to ⅜@½c net decline.

Continued cold weather made bearish sentiment regarding corn more pronounced. Notices of consignments were fairly generous. The opening, which varied fro mthe same as last night to ¼c lower, was followed by an all-around decline.

Slackness of eastern demand kept the corn market depressed. The close was steady at ⅛@¼c under last night.

Oats became weak in sympathy with corn. Business, however, lacked volume.

Higher prices for hogs steadied provisions. Buyers and sellers were about evenly divided in number.

ST. LOUIS PRODUCE MARKET

MODERN MILLER CROP OUTLOOK.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—There have been complaints from districts in Kansas and Nebraska, where dry weather prevented vigorous growth in late-sown wheat in general., the crop goes into the winter with vigorous growth. The prevalence of fly has created some apprehension in soft wheat states. Our reports indicate that the holding policy of farmers will be to tell in a decreased movement in the near future.

HEYWARD & CLARK COTTON LETTER

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 20.—The following is a semi-official report on the Egyptian crop and future production: "Owing to low prices, much of the grown crop was allowed to perish and the yield this year is not expected to exceed 7,000,000 cantars, about 1,000,000 bales, Egyptian weight."

A government decree fixed the area to be planted next year at 1,000,000 feddars, against 1,750,000 this year, whereby production is expected to be reduced to 51 2,000,000 cantars.

Mill news is quite encouraging. From a northern source comes reports that cotton mills and manufacturers are unable to handle all their orders for war material, many of them working with double shifts night and day. The domestic demand has also increased conspicuously, showing a return to normal financial conditions.

San Francisco reports large clearances of cotton for China and Japan and further large orders from those quarters for the raw material.

New York advised that, because of unforseen difficulties, the plan to reopen the stock exchange for dealing in bonds has been postponed indefinitely. The curb market indicates too much pressure to liquidate.

This announcement was responsible for the depressed opening of our market this morning. A more optimistic spirit, however, soon took possession of trading, causing some advance. The good mill news and no further reduction in spot prices inspired support. Strength in December in New York is predicted for technical reasons.

Reports from the spot market speak of greater steadiness and better demand. A very steady tone characterized the future market during the remainder of the morning session. A disposition to buy was more pronounced and caution alone over the possibility of political surprises seems to check support.

Revised ideas about tomorrow's census are in favor of ginnings of around 11,250,000 bales to November 14, which compares with 10,444,529 last year and 11,313,236 in 1911.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Raw sugar barely steady; molasses, 3.36@3.42; centrifugal, $4.01@4.07; refined steady.

SHORT COVERING AND BULL SUPPORT CAUSED ADVANCE

Market in New York Closed 3 to 15 Points Higher Than the Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Trading continued very quiet in the cotton market here early in the day. There appeared to be a few overnight selling orders at the start and after opening steady at an advance of 2 points on December, but generally unchanged to 3 points lower, the market eased off a point or two under scattering liquidation. There was no aggressive pressure, however, and prices ruled steady with the more active positions working a point or two over last night's closing figures before the end of the first hour.

Liverpool became a moderate buyer of the December contracts here shortly after the opening, presumably to cover shorts, and active months ruled about 2 to 7 points net higher during the early afternoon. Business continued quiet, but the market was steady at the advance.

December contracts sold up to 7.12 during the afternoon or 11 points net higher and 27 points above the recent low level on continued covering and reports of steady spot markets in the south. Later deliveries remained quiet and steady at about 2 to 6 points net higher.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—Cotton opened today with contracts showing irregularity. Near months were at a slight advance, while the more distant months were at a small decline. The undertone was steady, and half an hour after the opening the market stood 2 to 4 points over yesterday's close.

The market took on a waiting attitude because of tomorrow's census figures on ginning. A steady tone was maintained on reports that much liquidation of the old long interests had been accomplished. At noon prices were 3 to 6 up.

Reports that German spinners were buyers of contracts in this market, operating through Holland and Italy, favored the long side. At 1:30 o'clock prices were 6 to 8 points up.

TURBULENCE OF MEXICO EXPLAINED BY JOHN LIND

War Will Not Cease Until Great Landowners Cease Oppression, He Says

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—Fighting in Mexico never will cease until the land has been redistributed and workers can own their homes, in the opinion of John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative in the southern republic during Huerta's administration. Addressing the industrial club here Thursday, Mr. Lind sketched the development of the landlord system under the Spanish conquerors and then declared:

"As a whole the nation was made homeless and has so continued to this day. This in and will be the cause of revolutions in Mexico until the question is settled. The state of Morelos, for example, is owned by twenty-seven men.

Nominal freedom, Mr. Lind said, was accorded the peons, but they are poorly paid and practically compelled to remain in the service of the great land owners. Laws forbidding employes to leave the landlords' service while in debt have aided in keeping the workers in subjection.

Careful study of the Mexicans, the speaker continued, convinced him that the differences between them and the citizens of the United States were not acid nor psychological. The turbulence of the Mexicans, he said, could be attributed to years of oppression.

"The hard experience of the Mexican has made him wary and suspicious," said Mr. Lind. "It has been difficult for the Mexican people to believe our president did not have some ulterior motive in his proffered good offices. I think, however, they now are about convinced, and when once convinced, more loyal friends are not to be found."

The speaker closed with a plea "for a warmer and kindlier interest in these, our neighbors."

"They bear us no ill will," he declared. "They need our good will. We need theirs. We must be friends in peace and allies in trouble. The people of Mexico dwell in a rich and beautiful land. I feel they are a people of great promise. They have suffered vicissitudes which we have escaped. I believe they are emerging into the light of a new and better day."

$1,200 YEARLY ANNOUNCED LIVING WAGE IN GOTHAM

Bureau of Standards Favors System of Periodic Raises for City Employes

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The bureau of standards of the board of estimate, which fixes all salaries in municipal departments, has decided $1,200 a year is the living wage in New York City. In a report yesterday to the board of aldermen, the bureau stated the $1,200 a year salary is taken as the basis for what is termed higher and lower grades of work.

By establishing a system of regular periodic increases based on length of service and efficiency ratings in the lower grades, and in the higher grades on length of service and efficiency ratings, it is estimated a substantial equality in salaries will be brought about in a period of seven or eight years.

"Owing to conditions apparently inherent in city employment under civil service restrictions," says the report, "it is necessary to pay a compensation of from 10 to 20 per cent higher than that paid in private employment."

BOLD FILIBUSTERING PLOT AGAINST LAREDO FAILS

Several Mexicans Are Arrested for Recruiting on American Soil

LAREDO, Tex., Nov. 20.—Discovery of an alleged filibustering plot against Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, was announced here today. Four Mexicans were arrested here late yesterday and another was arrested in San Antonio. They were said to be former Villa men. They were charged with recruiting on American soil.

The Mexicans were held to await an examining trial before United States Commissioner Foster here Monday. Within the last two months there have been several reports of attempts to organize filibustering expeditions here. Definite proof failed to develop, but with the publication of each report the apparent filibustering activity disappeared.

THOUSANDS OF HUNTERS IN WOODS AND FIELDS

More Licenses Have Been Sold This Year Than for Any Previous Season

The open season for quail, deer and wild turkey, began Friday in Georgia and thousands of hunters were in the woods and fields.

Reports received by the state game department indicate that up-to-date more licenses have been sold this year than for any previous year. The returns of the wardens for November are not yet in, but the fact that a number of county wardens have recently ordered extra supplies of licenses is taken to mean that there has been an unusual demand.

Quail are reported as plentiful in all parts of the state.

You Can't Brush Or Wash Out Dandruff

The Simplest and Quickest Way is To Dissolve It.

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to preserve your hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for nothing destroys the hair more quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everyone notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work. (Advt.)

COTTON LOAN COMMITTEE MEETING IN NEW YORK

Plans Discussed for Investigating Applications for Loans From Cotton Growers

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The $135,000,000 cotton pool loan committee, organized recently under the auspices of the secretary of the treasury and embracing the leading banks of the country, met here today in executive session at the federal reserve bank of New York.

It was expected steps would be taken to appoint committees for each of the cotton growing states to investigate applications for loans on cotton and to credits, it is estimated a substantial equality in salaries will be brought about in a period of seven or eight years.

The loan committee includes W. P. G. Harding, Paul M. Warburg, of the national federal reserve board; A. H. Wiggin, chairman of the New York clearing house association; J. S. Alexander, president of the National Bank of Commerce of New York; J. B. Forgan, of Chicago; L. L. Ruo, of Philadelphia; W. A. Gaston, of Boston, and F. J. Wade, of St. Louis, who originated the plan.

Experienced Women Advise Mother's Friend

Because it is so perfectly safe to use and has been of such great help to a host of expectant mothers, these women, experienced in this most happy period, advise the use of "Mother's Friend."

Applied externally to the abdominal muscles its purpose is to relieve the undue tension upon the cords and ligaments resulting from muscular expansion. Beneath the surface is a network of fine nerve threads and the gentle, soothing embrocation, "Mother's Friend," is designed to so lubricate the muscular fibres as to avoid the unnecessary and continuous nagging upon this myriad of nerves. Applied to the breasts it affords the proper massage to prevent caking.

There is scarcely a well-stocked drug store anywhere but what you can easily obtain a bottle of "Mother's Friend" and in nearly every town and village is a grandma who herself used it in earlier years. Expectant mothers are urged to try th splendid assistant.

Mother Friend has been prepared by Brad ield Regulator Co., 310 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for nearly half a century. Send for valuable little book to expectant mothers.
